LBJ Sounds New Peace Plea

Viet Cong Staging Area Is Plastered

Da Nang Gripped By General Strike Led by Buddhists

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. Air Force B52s bombed a Viet Cong staging area within sight of the North Viet Nam border today, but on the ground the Allied offensive continued without any major clashes.

American jets attacking North Viet Nam Monday added army installations to the usual communications targets. Two U.S. planes were lost, including the first Navy Albatross amphibious rescue craft downed by North Vietnamese gunners.

On the political scene, Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's military government faced continuing unrest stemming from the ouster of Ky's potential rival, Gen. Nguyen Khanh Thi, from command of the army's 1st Corps. More than 3,000 persons demonstrated in Da Nang, the 1st Corps headquarters, calling for national elections to displace the junta, and a general strike paralyzed the city of 160,000.

Dominican General Offers To Duel

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — Gen. Antonio Imbert, one of the two survivors of the men who shot down dictator Rafael Trujillo, has challenged ex-President Juan Bosch to a duel with weapons or words.

Imbert, who escorted Bosch into exile when a coup toppled him in 1963, issued the challenge in a half-page advertisement today in the newspaper El Caribe.

The general accused the politician of "dividing the Dominican family" and told him to choose between "dialogue" and the "field of honor."

Imbert said if Bosch chooses to fight it out in the field, he would let him name the time and place.

Bosch, expected to be a leading candidate in the June presidential election, said he would have no comment.

Imbert, who headed the junta created by anti-Bosch forces during the revolt last April, apparently took umbrage to a reference to him in a report Bosch circulated among diplomats charging a plot against his life.

Bosch claimed that his bodyguards captured Pedro Maria Pimentel, 19, and that Pimentel said he had been paid $50 by six American soldiers to spy on Bosch because the Americans planned to kill the former president and his bodyguards.

Bosch said Pimentel was a nephew of a millionaire "friend of General Imbert."

Pimentel changed his story when turned over to police. He said that Bosch's guards had seized him and tortured him until he agreed to confess to anything they told him to say.

Peking, Hanoi Told Position Is 'Hopeless'

President Signs $4.8 Billion Bill To Support War

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson signed today a bill authorizing $4.8 billion more to support the war in Viet Nam and with this action sounded a new plea to Peking and Hanoi to "abandon their hopeless attempts at conquest."

Johnson interpreted the overwhelming margins by which Congress passed the measure as a new declaration that the American people "stand behind our fighting men in Viet Nam."

The signing ceremony and the presidential speech took place in the White House East Room before members of Congress, Cabinet and defense officials, the military high command and White House staff aides.

Speaking to those who asked what the struggle in Viet Nam really means, Johnson said he wanted to say again:

"Our purpose is to demonstrate to the remaining advocates of violence that there is more human profit to be had from peace than there is from war."

A few hours ahead of Johnson's statement, Secretary of State Dean Rusk said the great majority of non-Communist governments back the U.S. role in Viet Nam although some, for various reasons, have not expressed their support publicly.

And he predicted more nations will offer help.

"No, the United States does not stand alone assisting the Republic of Viet Nam to repel an aggression," Rusk said Monday night at a Founders' Day banquet of the Boston University School of Public Communications.

"The facts about the cause and nature of the struggle there and the vital stakes involved, are increasingly realized throughout the free world."

Gemini Shot Tentatively Booked for Wednesday

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — After wrestling through the night with a batch of mechanical problems, space agency officials today gave the Gemini 8 astronauts a tentative green light to blast off Wednesday on the start of a busy three days in space.

William C. Schneider, Gemini mission director, said late this morning that "we are proceeding for a launch tomorrow, but are on a very tight schedule."

The go-ahead came late this morning after a lengthy series of tests indicated that a life-supporting environmental control unit borrowed from another spacecraft, Gemini 9, was working properly and technical troubles also were resolved in the Atlas booster which will hurl an unmanned Agena target satellite into orbit.

Astronauts Neil Armstrong and David Scott — were grounded 24 hours by the mechanical failures — were to attend a final weather review today, then take most of the day off to rest for their mission.

Weathermen were predicting satisfactory launch day conditions.

If the flight is successful, Armstrong and Scott will become the first men to link up with another satellite in orbit and Scott will perform a record-breaking 2½-hour "stroll in space." They plan to rocket aloft at 11:41 a.m. (EST)—101 minutes after the Agena.

Early this morning, 6,000 feet away from the Gemini launch pad, tanking tests were completed on the Atlas booster. A valve and regulator were replaced in the Atlas Monday after a fuel tank was filled beyond capacity and propellant splashed out.

Gemini 9's environmental control unit was installed in Gemini 8 after an oxygen leak was discovered in a suit circuit in Gemini 8's environmental control system.

The environmental control system is the device that keeps the two astronauts alive. It pumps oxygen for breathing and gets rid of carbon dioxide exhaled by the spacemen. It also cools the spacesuits — as well as the inside of the Gemini 8 spacecraft — and keeps the atmospheric pressure at the proper level.

The system consists of water and oxygen supplies; provides for removing small solids, odors and excess moisture from the suit, supplies drinking water and gets rid of urine.

The Gemini 9 spacecraft was delivered to Cape Kennedy March 2 and was undergoing checks for a May launching.

If the new system can be checked out in time and no other problems develop, Armstrong and Scott will attend their final weather briefing today, then relax to save the energy needed during their busy space venture.

25 School Aides Quit Galion System

GALION, Ohio (AP) — Resignations from 25 school officials, teachers and non-teaching employees have been accepted by the Galion Board of Education in a city school controversy.

The board was told that at least 15 other resignations could be expected.

All but two of the resignations accepted stemmed from the board's refusal to rehire J. Harold Blosser as superintendent of schools when his contract expires July 31.

Fifth of McDevitt Boys Now Combat Veteran

POCATELLO, Idaho (AP) — Young Barney McDevitt was caught in a Viet Cong ambush Sunday, thus becoming the fifth of the fighting McDevitts.

Bernard, 21, came through the attack unscathed. Four other sons of Pocatello attorney Barney McDevitt, 67, were in action with U.S. armed forces in World War II and the Korean War. All have survived.

McDevitt learned of his youngest son's experience as a medic with Company B of the 173rd Airborne Brigade Monday when he was called by the Pocatello newspaper the Idaho Journal. The Journal told him that "Young Barney" was mentioned in an Associated Press story by Pulitzer prize-winning photographer Horst Faas from a battle zone in the Viet Nam war.

"When the call first came in," McDevitt said, "the first reaction, of course, was one of fear."

Later, he said, when he found out his son was safe, "it went from fear to the greatest amount of pleasure a father could have."

Spec. 4 McDevitt or "Young Barney" as he is called here, was caught in a B52 bomb crater northeast of Saigon by a Viet Cong ambush.

At one time during the battle, he was treating four men.

"I didn't know Barney was in combat," the senior McDevitt said. "All five of my sons have now seen action, and I'm certainly thankful this was the last battle."

Of his four other sons, Dan, who now has his own engineering laboratory in Tulsa, Okla., was a Marine during the landings in Okinawa in World War II.

Charles, an attorney in Boise, served in the South Pacific during World War II.

Herman, a partner in his father's law firm in Pocatello, is a veteran of the Korean War.

Tommy, a surgeon at Orange County Hospital in Los Angeles, also served in Korea.

Herman and Charles are members of the Idaho House of Representatives.

All five are married. Young Barney's wife is a nurse in Okinawa.

Approval Near On Tax Plan

Compromise Bill Faces Final Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — Final congressional approval of a $6-billion tax package is expected by tonight, in time to meet the deadline President Johnson proposed weeks ago.

Already passed by both chambers, the big bill to raise funds for Viet Nam fighting and drain off some inflationary pressure goes back to the House and Senate compromise form.

With most Senate changes trimmed away, the measure is close to the original administration proposals designed to increase revenues for two years by speeding up some tax collections and temporarily reimposing higher excise taxes on automobiles and telephone service.

In addition to the purely revenue-raising measures, legislation includes a substantially revised system of withholding income tax from wage and salary earners and provides Social Security pensions for some 300,000 persons 72 or older who had not been covered.

The main revenue provisions are two-year boosts of the automobile excise tax by one percentage point and the telephone tax by seven and a speedup of corporate tax collections, without raising the rates.

The new withholding system for the first time takes into account the fact that higher incomes are taxed in higher brackets. Officials estimated that in general it would mean lower withholding for average families with earnings up to about $7,000, higher withholding for those receiving more. The object is to match more closely withholding with the actual tax owed.

The new Social Security pensions, $35 a month for a single person, $52.50 for a married couple, are available to persons 72 and older not now covered by Social Security, provided they are not receiving an equivalent pension from any other federal, state or local government source, the Railroad Retirement System or public welfare payments.

Pearson suggested that the investigation not only determine whether national security had been endangered but also whether the government of Conservative Prime Minister John G. Diefenbaker had handled the case properly.

Two members of Diefenbaker's Cabinet have acknowledged that they knew Mrs. Munsinger, who now lives in Munich, West Germany. She was a resident of Canada from the late 1950s to 1961, and Justice Minister Lucien Carlin has said that she was involved in espionage before coming to Canada.

Defendant Is Wounded During Trial

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP) — James Miller, 26, is in serious condition today after being shot four times during a recess in his murder trial. Authorities held the father of the girl he is accused of killing.

Prosecuting attorney Joe Holmes said he would charge Chance Williams, 38, with assault with intent to kill.

Four bullets from a 22-caliber pistol were pumped into Miller Monday as he stood in a crowded corridor outside the courtroom in the Jefferson County Courthouse.

Miller was struck once in the left side of the head, twice in the back and once in the chest. Deputy Sheriff Pink Booher said he arrested Williams as he ran down the back stairs of the courthouse. He said Williams had a 22-caliber pistol in his hands.

Miller is charged with second-degree murder in the Oct. 31, 1965, shooting of Williams' daughter, Dorothy, 19, in a Pine Bluff cafe.

Circuit Judge Henry W. Smith declared Monday's proceedings a mistrial.

Grant Approved For City Schools

Fritz Jacobs, superintendent of city schools, announced today that a federal grant of $38,313.57 has been approved for the Circleville School System under Title I of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act.

Title of this program, the second to be authorized here this year, is "Remedial and Developmental Skills for Educationally Disadvantaged Students."

Objectives of the program, according to Jacobs, will be to attack problems confronting educationally deprived students with the greatest need for remedial assistance.

First phase of the program is scheduled to begin immediately with a reading improvement course. Two teachers will be employed for the remedial program to travel from school to school serving the students in need of the course on an individual or small group basis.

JACOBS noted that until such a time when qualified teachers can be secured, the remedial program will be temporarily supplemented by utilizing the present staff and scheduling Saturday morning classes. Additional teaching aids will be added including reading laboratories, autotutors and necessary supplies.

The second phase will be supplemented with a Remedial Summer School Program serving educationally disadvantaged students in elementary and secondary grades. For secondary grades, this represents students receiving a failing or unsatisfactory grade in a given subject area, Jacobs said.

Armstrong Is Top Paid Astronaut

SPACE CENTER, Houston, Tex. (AP) — Gemini 8 command pilot Neil A. Armstrong, the first of the nation's civilian astronauts named to a space mission, is the highest paid American spaceman on flight status.

As a government employee, Armstrong, 35, draws a salary of $21,653 annually.

The previous top salaried astronaut to draw a flight assignment was Navy Capt. Walter M. Schirra, command pilot on Gemini 6. His military pay, including allowances, amounts to $17,866 a year.

Air Force Maj. David R. Scott, Armstrong's partner aboard Gemini 8, makes $12,981. While Armstrong's salary tops any drawn by astronauts currently qualified for space flights, he is not the highest paid in the astronaut corps.

Donald K. Slayton, former Air Force major ruled off flight status because of a slight heart condition, maintains a dual role as civilian astronaut and assistant director for flight crew operations at the Manned Spacecraft Center. His salary is $22,500 a year.

Smaller Coal Mines Get Safety Regulation

WASHINGTON (AP) — After eight years of consideration, Congress has extended mandatory federal safety rules to small coal mines.

The Senate Monday cleared to President Johnson the bill ending the present exemption from such regulations for the approximately 6,500 mines employing 14 men or less.

The Senate acted by voice vote in the face of some opposition. The House passed the measure last year 335 to 43.

Blind Piano Tuner Sought

Man Missing For 11 Days

DETROIT (AP) — Blind piano tuner Gerald E. Henke set out to a client's home 11 days ago and disappeared.

While his partially blind wife, Beverly, ill with cancer, waits and worries at their suburban Southfield home, police seek clues.

But authorities have come up with nothing substantial. The Henkes, both 30, were married six years ago on Christmas Eve after a romance at a school for the blind. They are childless.

"I love you, don't worry about me," Henke told his wife on a telephone call from Detroit the day he vanished — March 4.

Mrs. Henke indicated a steadfast hope for her husband's return. "He wouldn't leave me," she said at the white, brick-faced home which the couple bought last October.

Southfield Police Sgt. Floyd Rath said the case has baffling angles.

Friends described the Henkes as in love and inseparable.

Despite blindness, Henke, 6-foot-2, was self-reliant. He made his rounds carrying a folding cane.

His appearance, including a widow's peak in his brown hair and a depression over his right temple, would make anyone remember him, police said.

"I'd know him just from his picture," Sgt. Rath said.

Rath said the possibilities of foul play or amnesia were being considered. He said Henke has suffered amnesia. Despite publication of Henke's picture, police said no one had come forward who had seen the missing man.

Henke was reported to have had nearly $500 in his possession when he disappeared.

Mrs. Henke has the company of her mother, Mrs. Corene Reetz of Detroit, who moved in with her daughter after Henke's disappearance.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The president of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation said here today that "President Johnson's budget proposals which shift the control of agricultural education and research funds to the federal government are a threat to Ohio farmers."

Frank Sollars of Washington Court House, the federation president, is heading a delegation here in the group's annual conferences with Ohio congressmen.

In a statement, Sollars said: "The USDA budget proposals cut $381,000 which Ohio State University has been receiving as teaching funds because it is a landgrant institution, cut $357,100 in the Smith-Lever funds directly allocated to the Ohio Cooperative Extension Service, and $231,970 in the Hatch formula funds, plus $445,000 in Agricultural Research Service funds, which in the past have been appropriated under a formula to the Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center."

"We are opposed to this further centralization of control of agriculture from Washington," Sollars said. "While here we are talking with our congressmen and senators about these cuts, and we hope that they will be restored."

DETROIT (AP) — The University of Detroit says the Vatican has declined permission for Sister Marie Bernadette to appear in a campus theater production.

Army Rifle Training Is Criticized

WASHINGTON (AP) — A civilian research-engineering firm has criticized rifle marksmanship training the Army gives men going into combat.

The Army's procedure "leaves something to be desired," said the report by Arthur D. Little Inc. The firm surveyed the nation's civilian marksmanship program and its contributions, direct and indirect, to the armed forces.

The Army requested the survey.

"We were surprised to find that no desired objectives or even minimum standards of rifle marksmanship proficiency have been set for either units or individuals going into combat," the firm reported.

The study recommended that the armed forces conduct "needed research," including perhaps making what it called "quality control checks" on the marksmanship proficiency of rifle units going into combat.

The Army says it is puzzled by this criticism. It points out that every man is required to qualify with a rifle by reaching a certain standard or target hits.

Da Nang Gripped By General Strike Led by Buddhists

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. Air Force B52s bombed a Viet Cong staging area within sight of the North Viet Nam border today, but on the ground the Allied offensive continued without any major clashes.

American jets attacking North Viet Nam Monday added army installations to the usual communications targets. Two U.S. planes were lost, including the first Navy Albatross amphibious rescue craft downed by North Vietnamese gunners.

More than 3,000 persons demonstrated in Da Nang, the 1st Corps headquarters, calling for national elections to displace the junta, and a general strike paralyzed the city of 160,000.

Big Debate In Canada Is Continuing

OTTAWA (AP) — Canada's big debate over the Gerdia Munster case continued today amid indications that both major political parties were prepared to stake their future on the outcome of a proposed judicial investigation.

The House of Commons was to resume discussion this afternoon of the Liberal government's order for a judicial inquiry into all aspects of the case involving the 36-year-old German beauty and some members of the previous Conservative Cabinet.

Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson surprised some observers Monday night by the broad terms of the investigation, which will be carried out under the direction of Supreme Court Justice W.F. Spence.

Pearson suggested that the investigation not only determine whether national security had been endangered but also whether the government of Conservative Prime Minister John G. Diefenbaker had handled the case properly.

Two members of Diefenbaker's Cabinet have acknowledged that they knew Mrs. Munster, who now lives in Munich, West Germany. She was a resident of Canada from the late 1950s to 1961, and Justice Minister Lucien Carlin has said that she was involved in espionage before coming to Canada.

Dominican General Offers To Duel

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — Gen. Antonio Imbert, one of the two survivors of the men who shot down dictator Rafael Trujillo, has challenged ex-President Juan Bosch to a duel with weapons or words.

Imbert, who escorted Bosch into exile when a coup toppled him in 1963, issued the challenge in a half-page advertisement

today in the newspaper El Caribe.

The general accused the politician of "dividing the Dominican family" and told him to choose between "dialogue" and the "field of honor."

Imbert said if Bosch chooses to fight it out in the field, he would let him name the time and place.

Bosch, expected to be a leading candidate in the June presidential election, said he would have no comment.

Imbert, who headed the junta created by anti-Bosch forces during the revolt last April, apparently took umbrage to a reference to him in a report Bosch circulated among diplomats charging a plot against his life.

Bosch claimed that his bodyguards captured Pedro Maria Pimentel, 19, and that Pimentel said he had been paid $50 by six American soldiers to spy on Bosch because the Americans planned to kill the former president and his bodyguards.

Bosch said Pimentel was a nephew of a millionaire "friend of General Imbert."

Pimentel changed his story when turned over to police. He said that Bosch's guards had seized him and tortured him until he agreed to confess to anything they told him to say.

Peking, Hanoi Told Position Is 'Hopeless'

President Signs $4.8 Billion Bill To Support War

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson signed today a bill authorizing $4.8 billion more to support the war in Viet Nam and with this action sounded a new plea to Peking and Hanoi to "abandon their hopeless attempts at conquest."

Johnson interpreted the overwhelming margins by which Congress passed the measure as a new declaration that the American people "stand behind our fighting men in Viet Nam."

The signing ceremony and the presidential speech took place in the White House East Room before members of Congress, Cabinet and defense officials, the military high command and White House staff aides.

Speaking to those who asked what the struggle in Viet Nam really means, Johnson said he wanted to say again:

"Our purpose is to demonstrate to the remaining advocates of violence that there is more human profit to be had from peace than there is from war."

A few hours ahead of Johnson's statement, Secretary of State Dean Rusk said the great majority of non-Communist governments back the U.S. role in Viet Nam although some, for various reasons, have not expressed their support publicly.

And he predicted more nations will offer help.

"No, the United States does not stand alone assisting the Republic of Viet Nam to repel an aggression," Rusk said Monday night at a Founders' Day banquet of the Boston University School of Public Communications.

"The facts about the cause and nature of the struggle there are increasingly realized throughout the free world."

Once Around Roundtown

CIRCLEVILLE Police reported today several local residents have been receiving "nuisance telephone calls" . . . Officers say those complaining report their phone rings and they answer . . . But no one answers in return.

Frequently a person can be heard breathing on the other end of the line . . . Police urged residents receiving such calls to report them immediately.

Heart Patient, 5, Said Improving

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Doctors at the University of Michigan Medical Center say 5-year-old Judy Lynn Funch continues to respond to treatment five days after she underwent heart surgery.

The youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Funch of Genesee Township, near Flint, Mich., was transferred from the recovery room to the cardiac room today.

"That's a big improvement," said one staff physician.

Thursday a team of 10 doctors and assistants worked four hours to remove an obstruction in a vein leading from her lung to her heart.

She Battles Cancer. Then Dies in Collision

CANOGA PARK, Calif. (AP) — Crystal Auerbach, 66, venturing from her home here for the first time Sunday after a five-year battle with cancer, died in a nearby four-car collision, police reported.

Mrs. Auerbach's husband was injured in the accident, officers said.

Approval Near On Tax Plan

Compromise Bill Faces Final Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — Final congressional approval of a $6-billion tax package is expected by nightfall, in time to meet the deadline President Johnson proposed weeks ago.

Already passed by both chambers, the big bill to raise funds for Viet Nam fighting and drain off some inflationary pressure goes back to the House and Senate compromise form.

With most Senate changes trimmed away, the measure is close to the original administration proposals designed to increase revenues for two years by speeding up some tax collections and temporarily reimposing higher excise taxes on automobiles and telephone service.

In addition to the purely revenue-raising measures, legislation includes a substantially revised system of withholding income tax from wage and salary earners and provides Social Security pensions for some 300,000 persons 72 or older who had not been covered.

The main revenue provisions are two-year boosts of the automobile excise tax by one percentage point and the telephone tax by seven and a speedup of corporate tax collections, without raising the rates.

The new withholding system for the first time takes into account the fact that higher incomes are taxed in higher brackets. Officials estimated that in general it would mean lower withholding for average families with earnings up to about $7,000, higher withholding for those receiving more. The object is to match more closely withholding with the actual tax owed.

The new Social Security pensions, $35 a month for a single person, $52.50 for a married couple, are available to persons 72 and older not now covered by Social Security, provided they are not receiving an equivalent pension from any other federal, state or local government source, the Railroad Retirement System or public welfare payments.

Defendant Is Wounded During Trial

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP) — James Miller, 26, is in serious condition today after being shot four times during a recess in his murder trial. Authorities held the father of the girl he is accused of killing.

Prosecuting attorney Joe Holmes said he would charge Charlie Williams, 38, with assault with intent to kill.

Four bullets from a 22-caliber pistol were pumped into Miller Monday as he stood in a crowded corridor outside the courtroom in the Jefferson County Courthouse.

Miller was struck once in the left side of the head, twice in the back and once in the chest. Deputy Sheriff Pink Booher said he arrested Williams as he ran down the back stairs of the courthouse. He said Williams had a 22-caliber pistol in his hands.

Miller is charged with second-degree murder in the Oct. 31, 1965, shooting of Williams' daughter, Dorothy, 19, in a Pine Bluff cafe.

Circuit Judge Henry W. Smith declared Monday's proceedings a mistrial.

Grant Approved For City Schools

Fritz Jacobs, superintendent of city schools, announced today that a federal grant of $38,313.57 has been approved for the Circleville School System under Title 1 of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act.

Title of this program, the second to be authorized here this year, is "Remedial and Developmental Skills for Educationally Disadvantaged Students."

Objectives of the program, according to Jacobs, will be to attack problems confronting educationally deprived students with the greatest need for remedial assistance.

First phase of the program is scheduled to begin immediately with a reading improvement course. Two teachers will be employed for the remedial program to travel from school to school serving the students in need of the course on an individual or small group basis.

JACOBS noted that until such a time when qualified teachers can be secured, the remedial program will be temporarily supplemented by utilizing the present staff and scheduling Saturday morning classes. Additional teaching aids will be added including reading laboratories, autotutors and necessary supplies.

The second phase will be supplemented with a Remedial Summer School Program serving educationally disadvantaged students in elementary and secondary grades. For secondary grades, this represents students receiving a failing or unsatisfactory grade in a given subject.

Armstrong Is Top Paid Astronaut

SPACE CENTER, Houston, Tex. (AP)—Gemini 8 command pilot Neil A. Armstrong, the first of the nation's civilian astronauts named to a space mission, is the highest paid American spaceman on flight status.

As a government employee, Armstrong, 35, draws a salary of $21,633 annually.

The previous top salaried astronaut to draw a flight assignment was Navy Capt. Walter M. Schirra, command pilot on Gemini 6. His military pay, including allowances, amounts to $17,866 a year.

Air Force Maj. David R. Scott, Armstrong's partner aboard Gemini 8, makes $12,981. While Armstrong's salary tops any drawn by astronauts currently qualified for space flights, he is not the highest paid in the astronaut corps.

Donald K. Slayton, former Air Force major ruled off flight status because of a slight heart condition, maintains a dual role as civilian astronaut and assistant director for flight crew operations at the Manned Spacecraft Center. His salary is $22,500 a year.

Smaller Cool Mines Get Safety Regulation

WASHINGTON (AP) — After eight years of consideration, Congress has extended mandatory federal safety rules to small coal mines.

The Senate Monday cleared to President Johnson the bill ending the present exemption from such regulations for the approximately 6,500 mines employing 14 men or less.

The Senate acted by voice vote in the face of some opposition. The House passed the measure last year 335 to 43.

Army Rifle Training Is Criticized

WASHINGTON (AP) — A civilian research-engineering firm has criticized rifle marksmanship training the Army gives men going into combat.

The Army's procedure "leaves something to be desired," said the report by Arthur D. Little Inc. The firm surveyed the nation's civilian marksmanship program and its contributions, direct and indirect, to the armed forces.

The Army requested the survey.

"We were surprised to find that no desired objectives or even minimum standards of rifle marksmanship proficiency have been set for either units or individuals going into combat," the firm reported.

The study recommended that the armed forces conduct "needed research," including perhaps making what it called "quality control checks" on the marksmanship proficiency of rifle units going into combat.

The Army says it is puzzled by this criticism. It points out that every man is required to qualify with a rifle by reaching a certain standard or target hits.

Nun's Acting Career Curbed

DETROIT (AP) — The University of Detroit says the Vatican has declined permission for Sister Marie Bernadette to appear in a campus theater production.

Sister Bernadette, 23, a nun majoring in drama, previously had received permission from the Most Rev. John F. Dearden, archbishop of Detroit.

The role calls for its actress to masquerade as a man and wear the foppish lace and silk costume of an 18th century gentleman. She and her stage lover do not meet until the last act when they briefly embrace.

Blind Piano Tuner Sought For 11 Days

DETROIT (AP) — Blind piano tuner Gerald E. Henke set out to a client's home 11 days ago and disappeared.

While his partially blind wife, Beverly, ill with cancer, waits and worries at their suburban Southfield home, police seek clues.

But authorities have come up with nothing substantial.

The Henkes, both 30, were married six years ago on Christmas Eve after a romance at a school for the blind. They are childless.

"I love you, don't worry about me," Henke told his wife on a telephone call from Detroit the day he vanished — March 4.

Mrs. Henke indicated a steadfast hope for her husband's return. "He wouldn't leave me," she said at the white, brick-faced home which the couple bought last October.

Southfield Police Sgt. Floyd Rath said the case has baffling angles.

Friends described the Henkes as in love and inseparable.

Despite blindness, Henke, 6-foot-2, was self-reliant. He made his rounds carrying a folding cane.

His appearance, including a widow's peak in his brown hair and a depression over his right temple, would make anyone remember him, police said.

"I'd know him just from his picture," Sgt. Rath said.

Rath said the possibilities of foul play or amnesia were being considered. He said Henke has suffered amnesia. Despite publication of Henke's picture, police said no one had come forward who had seen the missing man.

Henke was reported to have had nearly $500 in his possession when he disappeared.

Mrs. Henke has the company of her mother, Mrs. Corenne Reetz of Detroit, who moved in with her daughter after Henke's disappearance.

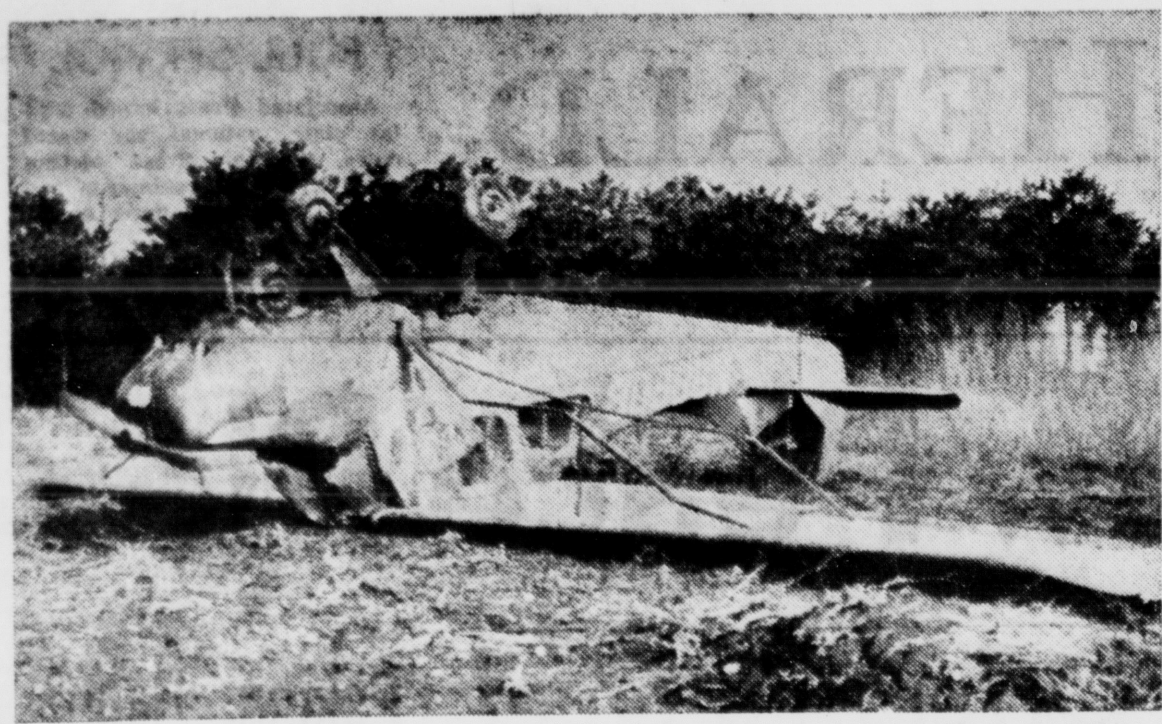

Farm Bureau Sees Danger In LBJ Plans

WASHINGTON (AP) — The president of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation said here today that "President Johnson's budget proposals which shift the control of agricultural education and research funds to the federal government are a threat to Ohio farmers."

Frank Sollars of Washington Court House, the federation president, is heading a delegation here in the group's annual conferences with Ohio congressmen.

In a statement, Sollars said, "The USDA budget proposals cut $381,000 which Ohio State University has been receiving as teaching funds because it is a landgrant institution, cut $357,100 in the Smith-Lever funds directly allocated to the Ohio Cooperative Extension Service, and $231,970 in the Hatch formula (funds, plus $445,000 in Agricultural Research Service funds, which in the past have been appropriated under a formula to the Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center."

"We are opposed to this further centralization of control of agriculture from Washington," Sollars said. "While here we are talking with our congressmen and senators about these cuts, and we hope that they will be restored."

NO BELLY LANDING — Paul Walters, 24, of 459 E. Ohio St., escaped injury yesterday when the front wheel of his airplane dropped into the mud and caused the craft to flip over after landing. Pickaway County Deputy Sheriff Homer Adams reported Walters had drifted off the runway at Elsea Airport into soft earth. Damage to the plane was estimated at $250.

Viet Cong

The 90-minute demonstration in South Viet Nam's second-largest city was orderly. About 20 per cent of the participants were soldiers.

In the air war, one flight of Guam-based Stratofortresses unloaded their big bombs this morning 60 miles northeast of Hue, in a wooded assembly area for men and supplies from nearby North Viet Nam.

Another flight of B52s hit a suspected Communist troop concentration in Phu Yen Province, on the South China Sea 225 miles northeast of Saigon. The Viet Cong have so far eluded elements of the U.S. 101st Airborne and South Korean units seeking to rout them from the ricefields around Tuy Hoa.

Aerial attacks over the North shifted somewhat from the road, bridge, communication type of target. Air Force F105 Thunderchiefs and F4C Phantoms in 19 strikes concentrated on army installations just north of the frontier.

Thunderchiefs hit the My Duc barracks about 20 miles north of the border, and pilots said they got half of them plus a bridge leading to the complex.

Other flights barreled into the Phu Qui army barracks, 20 miles farther north. The bombardiers calculated they destroyed 75 to 80 per cent of the buildings and said they set off a giant secondary explosion which shot a red flash and white smoke 1,000 feet into the area. There were no details of what may have happened to what troops quartered in the areas.

February Income Of City Court Listed at $5,296

Circleville Municipal Court listed income of $5,296.80 during February from fines, costs and bond forfeitures collected in criminal cases.

The bulk of the income was from traffic violations.

In listing disbursements, court clerk Naomi Houghton noted that $2,623.06 was returned to the City of Circleville.

The state received $1,168.76, amounting to 45 per cent of all Highway Patrol fines and bond forfeitures. The Pickaway County treasurer received $758.73 and the Law Library Assn., $628.

There were 197 cases filed during the month and the court completed 183. In addition to the criminal docket, there were 13 civil suits filed and seven concluded. The court performed one marriage.

Total costs due the city from civil cases and the marriage were $130.36.

News of World in Brief

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Franklin County Division of the Ohio Nursing Home Council sent letters to the local and state welfare departments today saying it would no longer accept aid for aged or county welfare patients "at the low rate of $6 a day for maximum care, or the less than $5 a day for minimum care."

The council's letters to Denver L. White, state welfare director, and Roger Williams, acting Franklin County welfare director, said the nursing homes increased their rates to $8 per day for minimum nursing care patients and to $10 per day for maximum nursing care patients.

LIMA, Ohio (AP)—No arson was involved in a $250,000 fire at Lima Central Junior High School, and the probable cause was a faulty light fixture, investigators said today.

Fire Chief Walter Hydaker said a team of investigators that included representatives of the state fire marshal's office decided the blaze started in a fluorescent light in the ceiling of the second floor bedroom.

Hydaker said the team viewed films showing progress of the Feb. 27 blaze and interviewed persons who reported seeing smoke in the light fixture two times previous to the fire.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Republican state headquarters is backing a campaign to step up organization of teen-age Republican clubs throughout the state. State Chairman John S. Andrews said today.

The clubs are sponsored by the Ohio League of Young Republicans Clubs, an auxiliary of the state party organization.

Currently there are 35 teen-age clubs in Ohio with a combined membership of 1,600 in 28 counties. Andrews said the goal is to establish at least one club in each county and to boost membership to 10,000 by 1968.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. James A. Rhodes granted a "imminent danger of death" parole today to Thomas Viola, who is serving a life sentence for the gangland-style slaying of James Mancine in Trumbull County in 1941.

Chief Surgeon W. H. Walker of Ohio Penitentiary said Viola is suffering from advanced lung cancer. The surgeon gave him about 60 to 90 days to live.

DOVER, England (AP)—Six men and a girl who crossed the English Channel by brass bedstead came home today on the escort boat that had watched over them on their voyage to France.

Sue Spearing, 18, the girl on the voyage, said the bedstead was in danger of being run down twice by ships on the voyage from Ramsgate to France Monday and ran into patches of fog. Otherwise the trip was uneventful, she said. The eastward journey took 8 hours and 40 minutes.

The bedstead was fitted to a raft made of tubular steel and empty oil drums, with outboard engines on it, and it had a rudder.

City Employee Hurt

Action Group Schedules Annual Meet

Annual meeting of the Pickaway County Community Action Organization Inc. has been scheduled for 8 p. m. Mar. 31, according to E. G. Grigg, president.

Grigg indicated a high point of the meeting will be several constitutional amendments that have been proposed. Major proposals will provide for additional representation for people served by the volunteer group.

A federal grant of $10,141 was authorized for the local program last week by officials of the Economic Opportunity Act. The initial funds will be used for hiring a full-time director and secretary in addition to survey workers for the anti-poverty program.

Applicants for these positions will be reviewed by the organization's board of trustees and recommendations will be made to fill the offices.

OFFICERS of the organization also will be elected at the annual upcoming session. A slate of officers will be presented to the board by a nominating committee.

Grigg announced that Charles Wilburn, a local attorney and certified public accountant, had volunteered his services to set up and periodically audit financial records of the PCCAO.

Post Office Has Forms On Medicare

Charles H. Walters, Circleville postmaster, announced today that application blanks for supplemental Medicare benefits are available at parcel post and stamp windows here.

Application blanks are being made available in an effort to register senior citizens before the deadline of Mar. 31.

Post office involvement in the registration program came as the result of President Johnson proclaiming March as National Medicare Enrollment Month.

He urged all federal agencies and all citizens to cooperate in the enrollment effort.

A copy of the application form has been posted on the bulletin board in the lobby of the post office building.

Senior citizens who reached 65 before 1966 face a two-year delay if they do not register before the deadline. Application forms are preaddressed to the Social Security Administration.

Circleville Municipal Court Lists Heavy Traffic Docket

Circleville Municipal Court listed a heavy traffic docket, headed by an area driver charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicants.

Curtis Lemaster, 48, Ashville was fined $150 and costs, sentenced to three days in the county jail and had his operator's license suspended for six months.

Five truck drivers were cited by an official of the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio. They are:

Jerome Jordan, Columbus; $100 and costs with $50 of the fine suspended, for failure to have a log book.

Beryl E. Luther forfeited a $100 bond for operating a commercial vehicle when he had no PUCO permit.

Larry Mick, Chillicothe, paid fines totaling $250 for failure to have proper safety equipment on his truck and for not having a PUCO tax decal.

Junior Johnson was fined $50 and costs for operating a commercial vehicle not registered with the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The State Highway Patrol cited five motorists for speeding 90 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

Forfeiting $50 bonds posted for the offense were Stanley Ervin, 31, Hartford, Mich.; John Paul King, 23, Wyandotte, Mich.; James Hardbarger, 42, Ashville. Waiving court hearings and paying fines of $41 and costs were Don Harmon, 26, Pemberville; and Bobby Joe Stone, 28, Mansfield. In addition, Stone was fined $30 and costs for consuming an alcoholic beverage in a motor vehicle.

No. 2 Ohioan Under Fire For Sideline

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Business activities of Lt. Gov. John W. Brown, Republican incumbent, have come under fire from a would-be Democratic election opponent.

Paul J. Lynch of Columbus, former state representative, said in a prepared statement that:

"Mr. Brown's office in the statehouse has become merely a handy base from which he can conduct his public relations, insurance and other enterprises at the taxpayers' expense."

Lynch called on all candidates for lieutenant governor to make public their "financial holdings and business interests as well as those of their immediate family" in the manner of some national candidates.

Brown declined comment. Lynch is opposing Democratic State Chairman William L. Coleman of Marysville for the party's lieutenant governor nomination in the May primary.

Brown, of Medina, is unopposed for the GOP nomination.

Steelmen Stage Strike on Crane

LONDON (AP)—Britain's first aerial strikers kept a shivering vigil 250 feet up a giant building crane today, defying their bosses' demands to come down to earth.

The four men — Pat, Joe, Jim and Mick — mounted the crane Monday in protest against pay cuts. They say they'll stay as long as they can stand it, but Mick wants to be down by Saturday to see a soccer match.

The four men, all steel erectors on an office block, say a cut in their bonuses has halved their weekly pay to $33.60.

They refuse to give their full names, charging the building industry operates a blacklist and they'd never get work again.

Peking, Hanoi

some Communist regimes understand that the United States "has made persistent and extraordinary efforts to obtain a peaceful settlement in Viet Nam — that it is Hanoi and Peking which have barred the road to peace."

The State Department head said he knew from his own contacts "that a great majority of non-Communist governments understand and support what we are doing, even though some, for various reasons, have not yet said so publicly." Rusk predicted that "you will see more and more governments of the free world offering increasing, tangible assistance to South Viet Nam."

During Rusk's talk, about 150 college-age pickets marched outside, carrying signs protesting U.S. policies in Viet Nam.

In Montreal, Deputy Undersecretary of State U. Alexis Johnson said he believes Americans do have the determination and perseverance to continue the Viet Nam struggle.

"When Hanoi and Peking are convinced that this is the case, a peaceful solution can be found," Johnson told the Canadian Club.

The official also said no one in the U.S. government believes victory in Viet Nam will be primarily a military victory. Any significant peace must permit necessary reforms in the political, social, religious and economic life of Viet Nam, even while military victories are taking place, he said.

Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., meanwhile, said in Atlanta, Ga., that if the Viet Nam struggle ever goes to the conference table, "the Viet Cong will have to be in on it."

"All parties will have to be included if we are ever able to reach a solution," Ribicoff said. "I believe the President realizes this." He was in Atlanta for a speaking engagement.

Board Okays Request for Bridge Aid

Measures calling for the employment of engineering assistance and acceptance of a bid for roadway equipment were approved Monday by the Board of County Commissioners.

The solons authorized the county engineer to hire DuPont - Sifford & Associates, 122 1/2 N. Court St., to assist with preparations for erection of a bridge in Monroe Twp. The span crosses Buskirk Creek at Dawson-Yankee town Road.

The assistance was sought by Engineer Henry McCrady under provisions set up by state law. He noted the request for aid was made due to his small engineering staff and a present heavy workload.

The engineering firm's fee will amount to 7 1/2 per cent of the contract cost.

A BID from the Dunlap Co. at Williamsport to provide two diesel tractors and mower assemblies was accepted. The Massey-Ferguson units will be delivered at a net cost of $6,940.

The lawmakers also approved the purchase of an adding machine for the Courthouse office that has been established for state examiners when they are assigned here. The machine will be acquired from the local Paul Johnson Office Equipment firm at a cost of $139.50.

NO BELLY LANDING — Paul Walters, 24, of 459 E. Ohio St., escaped injury yesterday when the front wheel of his airplane dropped into the mud and caused the craft to flip over after landing. Pickaway County Deputy Sheriff Homer Adams reported Walters had drifted off the runway at Elsea Airport into soft earth. Damage to the plane was estimated at $250.

The 90-minute demonstration in South Viet Nam's second-largest city was orderly. About 20 per cent of the participants were soldiers.

In the air war, one flight of Guam-based Stratofortresses unloaded their big bombs this morning 60 miles northeast of Hue, in a wooded assembly area for men and supplies from nearby North Viet Nam.

Another flight of B52s hit a suspected Communist troop concentration in Phu Yen Province, on the South China Sea 225 miles northeast of Saigon. The Viet Cong have so far eluded elements of the U.S. 101st Airborne and South Korean units seeking to rout them from the ricefields around Tuy Hoa.

Aerial attacks over the North shifted somewhat from the road, bridge, communication type of target. Air Force F105 Thunderchiefs and F4C Phantoms in 19 strikes concentrated on army installations just north of the frontier.

Thunderchiefs hit the My Duc barracks about 20 miles north of the border, and pilots said they got half of them plus a bridge leading to the complex.

Other flights barreled into the Phu Qui army barracks, 20 miles farther north. The bombardiers calculated they destroyed 75 to 80 per cent of the buildings and said they set off a giant secondary explosion which shot a red flash and white smoke 1,000 feet into the air. There were no details of what may have happened to any troops quartered in the areas.

February Income Of City Court Listed at $5,296

Circleville Municipal Court listed income of $5,296.80 during February from fines, costs and bond forfeitures collected in criminal cases.

The bulk of the income was from traffic violations. In listing disbursements, court clerk Naomi Houghton noted that $2,623.06 was returned to the City of Circleville.

The state received $1,168.76, amounting to 45 per cent of all Highway Patrol fines and bond forfeitures. The Pickaway County treasurer received $758.73 and the Law Library Assn., $628.

There were 197 cases filed during the month and the court completed 183. In addition to the criminal docket, there were 13 civil suits filed and seven concluded. The court performed one marriage.

Total costs due the city from civil cases and the marriage were $130.36.

News of World in Brief

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Franklin County Division of the Ohio Nursing Home Council sent letters to the local and state welfare departments today saying it would no longer accept aid for aged or county welfare patients "at the low rate of $6 a day for maximum care, or the less than $5 a day for minimum care."

The council's letters to Denver L. White, state welfare director, and Roger Williams, acting Franklin County welfare director, said the nursing homes increased their rates to $8 per day for minimum nursing care patients and to $10 per day for maximum nursing care patients.

LIMA, Ohio (AP)—No arson was involved in a $250,000 fire at Lima Central Junior High School, and the probable cause was a faulty light fixture, investigators said today.

Fire Chief Walter Hydaker said a team of investigators that included representatives of the state fire marshal's office decided the blaze started in a fluorescent light in the ceiling of the second floor bedroom.

Hydaker said the team viewed films showing progress of the Feb. 27 blaze and interviewed persons who reported seeing smoke in the light fixture two times previous to the fire.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Republican state headquarters is backing a campaign to step up organization of teen-age Republican clubs throughout the state. State Chairman John S. Andrews said today.

The clubs are sponsored by the Ohio League of Young Republican Clubs, an auxiliary of the state party organization.

Currently there are 35 teen-age clubs in Ohio with a combined membership of 1,600 in 28 counties. Andrews said the goal is to establish at least one club in each county and to boost membership to 10,000 by 1968.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. James A. Rhodes granted a "imminent danger of death" parole today to Thomas Viola, who is serving a life sentence for the gangland-style slaying of James MacInne in Trumbull County in 1941.

Chief Surgeon W. H. Walker of Ohio Penitentiary said Viola is suffering from advanced lung cancer. The surgeon gave him about 60 to 90 days to live.

DOVER, England (AP)—Six men and a girl who crossed the English Channel by brass bedstead came home today on the escort boat that had watched over them on their voyage to France.

Sue Spearling, 18, the girl on the voyage, said the bedstead was in danger of being run down twice by ships on the voyage from Ramsgate to France Monday and ran into patches of fog. Otherwise the trip was uneventful, she said. The eastward journey took 8 hours and 40 minutes.

The bedstead was fitted to a raft made of tubular steel and empty oil drums, with outboard engines on it, and it had a rudder.

Local arrangements are being completed by the Deffenbaugh Funeral Home.

MRS. MAYME G. WARREN
Mrs. Mayme G. Warren, 90, of 130 Pinckney St., died 1.20 p.m. Monday in Berger Hospital.

Mrs. Warren was born June 9, 1875, in Ross County the daughter of Oliver P. and Dorcas Kelly Goodman. She was the widow of Professor Milton C. Warren who died in 1948.

Survivors are a brother, Dr. D. K. Goodman, Kingston; and two nieces, Gertrude E. Jones and Mrs. Helen J. Smith, both of Chillicothe.

Services will be 1:30 p.m. Thursday at the Mader Funeral Home. Burial will be in Whisler Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home 3-5 p.m. Tuesday, 3-5 and 7-9 p.m. Wednesday.

Action Group Schedules Annual Meet

Annual meeting of the Pickaway County Community Action Organization Inc. has been scheduled for 8 p.m. Mar. 31, according to E. G. Grigg, president.

Grigg indicated a high point of the meeting will be several constitutional amendments that have been proposed. Major proposals will provide for additional representation for people served by the volunteer group.

A federal grant of $10,141 was authorized for the local program last week by officials of the Economic Opportunity Act. The initial funds will be used for hiring a full-time director and secretary in addition to survey workers for the anti-poverty program.

Applicants for these positions will be reviewed by the organization's board of trustees and recommendations will be made to fill the offices.

OFFICERS of the organization also will be elected at the annual upcoming session. A slate of officers will be presented to the board by a nominating committee.

Grigg announced that Charles Wilburn, a local attorney and certified public accountant, had volunteered his services to set up and periodically audit financial records of the PCCAO.

Post Office Has Forms On Medicare

Charles H. Walters, Circleville postmaster, announced today that application blanks for supplemental Medicare benefits are available at parcel post and stamp windows here.

Application blanks are being made available in an effort to register senior citizens before the deadline of Mar. 31.

Post office involvement in the registration program came as the result of President Johnson proclaiming March as National Medicare Enrollment Month. He urged all federal agencies and all citizens to cooperate in the enrollment effort.

A copy of the application form has been posted on the bulletin board in the lobby of the post office building.

Senior citizens who reached 65 before 1966 face a two-year delay if they do not register before the deadline. Application forms are preaddressed to the Social Security Administration.

some Communist regimes understand that the United States "has made persistent and extraordinary efforts to obtain a peaceful settlement in Viet Nam — that it is Hanoi and Peking which have barred the road to peace."

The State Department head said he knew from his own contacts "that a great majority of non-Communist governments understand and support what we are doing, even though some, for various reasons, have not yet said so publicly." Rusk predicted that "you will see more and more governments of the free world offering increasing, tangible assistance to South Viet Nam."

During Rusk's talk, about 150 college-age pickets marched outside, carrying signs protesting U.S. policies in Viet Nam.

In Montreal, Deputy Undersecretary of State U. Alexis Johnson said he believes Americans do have the determination and perseverance to continue the Viet Nam struggle.

"When Hanoi and Peking are convinced that this is the case, a peaceful solution can be found," Johnson told the Canadian Club.

The official also said no one in the U.S. government believes victory in Viet Nam will be primarily a military victory. Any significant peace must permit necessary reforms in the political, social, religious and economic life of Viet Nam, even while military victories are taking place, he said.

Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., meanwhile, said in Atlanta, Ga., that if the Viet Nam struggle ever goes to the conference table, "the Viet Cong will have to be in on it."

"All parties will have to be included if we are ever able to reach a solution," Ribicoff said. "I believe the President realizes this." He was in Atlanta for a speaking engagement.

Board Okays Request for Bridge Aid

Measures calling for the employment of engineering assistance and acceptance of a bid for roadway equipment were approved Monday by the Board of County Commissioners.

The solons authorized the county engineer to hire Du-mond - Stifford & Associates, 122 1/2 N. Court St., to assist with preparations for erection of a bridge in Monroe Twp. The span crosses Buskirk Creek at Dawson-Yanketown Road.

The assistance was sought by Engineer Henry McCrady under provisions set up by state law. He noted the request for aid was made due to his small engineering staff and a present heavy workload.

The engineering firm's fee will amount to 7 1/2 per cent of the contract cost.

A BID from the Dunlap Co. at Williamsport to provide two diesel tractors and mower assemblies was accepted. The Massey-Ferguson units will be delivered at a net cost of $6,940.

The lawmakers also approved the purchase of an adding machine for the Courthouse office that has been established for state examiners when they are assigned here. The machine will be acquired from the local Paul Johnson Office Equipment firm at a cost of $139.50.

The four men — Pat, Joe, Jim and Mick — mounted the crane Monday in protest against pay cuts. They say they'll stay as long as they can stand it, but Mick wants to be down by Saturday to see a soccer match.

The four men, all steel erectors on an office block, say a cut in their bonuses has halved their weekly pay to $33.60.

They refuse to give their full names, charging the building industry operates a blacklist and they'd never get work again.

State School Board Split On Bus Issue

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A wide split developed on the State Board of Education as Ohio's embattled new school bus programs had developments Monday on both fronts—expanded service and centralized bus buying.

Long and sometimes heated debate erupted and it took one changed vote, then a tie-breaker by the chairman, to keep the wheels turning in preparations for hauling parochial and private school pupils as well as those of public schools.

Meanwhile, Franklin County Common Pleas Court heard final oral arguments on the disputed central purchasing plan and took under advisement the suit seeking to nullify it.

The close vote at the school board came on appointment of seven regional coordinators, with the opposition demanding implementation wait until a court rules on the constitutionality of such public aid to parochial pupils, also in litigation.

Four coordinators were approved last month with no such general dispute.

The close vote this time came with Asst. Atty. Gen. William H. Grubbs maintaining the board had no choice but to proceed to set up the new system. That was a mandate from the 1965 legislature, he said, requiring compliance in the absence of any court order to hold up.

Board member Francis W. Spicer of Akron had offered a motion to delay any further action toward implementation until the pending court case brought by the Ohio Civil Liberties Union has been cleared. Walker of Adena ruled Spicer's motion improper and was sustained 14-5.

The board then proceeded on the "routine" motion to approve coordinators recommended by State Supt. E. E. Holt. The first vote was 10-8 against, before Francis Gaul of Cleveland switched to "yes" for a 9-9 tie which Walker broke with another "yes."

Member Robert Manchester of Canfield argued that the Ohio Department of Education could be caught with a lot of excess $9,000-$10,000 employees if a court killed the new bus law. Holt commented that they could be used on other transportation matters.

Gaul developed further controversy when he questioned hiring educators—those selected so far are largely principals and teachers—as transportation coordinators. He suggested transportation experts could do the job better and without creating vacancies in education's ranks.

Holt said he would study this idea but it might require different salaries.

In court, Judge Henry Holden gave no indication when he will rule on a suit by the Ohio Automobile Dealers Association and 20 bus body distributors protesting the centralized bus purchasing law.

The suit has practically halted bus purchases by Ohio districts. Some schools say they will face a transportation crisis if unable to buy new buses soon in anticipation of an added load next fall.

The board also accepted the superintendent's recommendations to:

Approve a joint vocational school district encompassing six

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — Earl Warren, 75 next Saturday, after 13 years on the Supreme Court is the strongest and most influential chief justice in American history, with the possible exception of John Marshall.

Marshall died in 1835 after 34 years as chief justice. He was not an intellectual, neither is Warren. Like Marshall, Warren is a tough-minded, practical man who is making the court a directly active force in American life and government.

Their effect will last forever in this country.

Before Marshall, who took his seat in 1801, the court had been so weak and little regarded that the very first chief justice, John Jay, a rich aristocrat, resigned to be governor of New York.

After a few years on the court, Warren, who had been governor of California three times, said, "I could not imagine going back to the other life."

Marshall made the court as strong as the presidency or Congress. He believed in the sovereignty of the federal government over the states and in the sanctity of private property. His court protected both.

The result was a strong central government which otherwise might have dwindled into a whisper. It laid the foundation for the future America.

Many times in the years that followed, the court was wishy-washy, timidly bowing to the will of Congress or the White House, particularly after the uproar over the reactionary court which invalidated the early part of President Franklin D. Roosevelt's New Deal.

For example: In 1896 the court ruled it was constitutional to segregate Negroes. In the next 58 years the court chipped away at this but never quite got up the courage of saying the 1896 decision itself was unconstitutional.

President Dwight D. Eisenhower appointed Warren chief justice in 1953 and a few months later, on May 17, 1954, the nine justices unanimously knocked out segregation and the 1896 ruling by outlawing segregation in public schools.

Just getting unanimity among the other eight justices on this was a great achievement for Warren.

Congress had dillyed and dallyed with civil rights legislation more than a generation but never felt strongly enough about it to pass a law giving Negroes the rights due them under the law since 1875.

The Warren Court has enforced the separation of church and state, and extended the guarantees of freedom from unreasonable searches and seizures, the privilege against self-incrimination, the right to counsel.

The Marshall court had established the right of the court to review any act of Congress or of state courts, the right of Congress to regulate interstate commerce. In short it made the central government iron-clad.

This enabled it to thrive and grow in strength. Without the Marshall court the American experiment might have ended in chaos. Without the Warren court the United States could hardly be the non-Communist world's leader, for if segregation remained it would have made a farce of American talk of freedom.

Space Age Ushered In Just Forty Years Ago

NEW YORK (AP) — Just 40 years ago Dr. Robert H. Goddard launched the world's first liquid-fueled rocket — and showed mankind the way to interplanetary space.

The flimsy little forerunner of the huge rocket systems of the 1960s leaped upward from a field near Auburn, Mass., March 16, 1926, in a flight lasting only 2½ seconds.

It reached an altitude of 41 feet and landed 184 feet away from its primitive launching pad in a jumble of twisted and broken tubing.

Unnoticed by the world at large, a frail, 43-year-old professor of physics at Clark University, Worcester, Mass., had ushered in the space age.

Recalling the pioneer flight in a commemorative stamp ceremony at Clark in 1964, John A. Gronouski, then postmaster general, said:

"The Wright brothers reduced the size of the world, Dr. Goddard reduced the size of the universe."

Pre-Goddard rockets were inefficiently propelled by gunpowder and other dry explosives with an uncontrollable burning rate and brief period of thrust.

Dr. Goddard had concluded that liquid fuel would give far better results.

In July, 1914, he had obtained U. S. Patent No. 1,103,503 on a rocket design embodying all the basic features of the giants built today, including the concept of multiple stages.

He had been experimenting with rockets for 18 years — and was recognized world expert in the field — when he was finally ready to demonstrate that liquid fuel would work.

Dr. Goddard's prototype, put together in a Clark University workshop, consisted of a two-foot motor linked by fragile tubing to a pair of 2½-foot tanks. One tank contained liquid oxygen, the other gasoline. Empty weighed less than five pounds.

Mounted in a makeshift metal frame which looked like part of a modern piece of playground equipment, the whole thing stood only 10 feet tall.

The launching site was a field on Miss Effie Ward's farm. She was a distant relative of Dr. Goddard and he called her "Aunt Effie."

With Dr. Goddard were his machinist helper Henry Sachs, Dr. P.M. Roope, assistant professor of physics at Clark, and Mrs. Goddard. She carried a movie camera.

At 2:30 p.m. Dr. Goddard primed the rocket and touched it off.

There was a sharp pop as the fuel ignited.

The rocket rose slowly until it cleared the supporting frame, then zipped into the air, curved to one side and plummeted to earth as part of the motor's nozzle burned off.

Dr. Goddard calculated the average speed from takeoff to landing at 60 miles an hour.

In the excitement, Mrs. Goddard's hand-wound movie camera had run down and the historic flight went unphotographed.

Another session has been scheduled for Mar. 24, starting at 8 p.m., in the St. Philip's Church Parish House. The Rev. Doctor George Fry, pastor of Martin Luther Evangelical Lutheran Church in Columbus, will be guest speaker. His address will be on Washington Gladden.

In circulation a dollar bill has an average life expectancy of 18 months.

State School Board Split On Bus Issue

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A wide split developed on the State Board of Education as Ohio's embattled new school bus programs had developments Monday on both fronts—expanded service and centralized bus buying.

Long and sometimes heated debate erupted and it took one changed vote, then a tie-breaker by the chairman, to keep the wheels turning in preparations for hauling parochial and private school pupils as well as those of public schools.

Meanwhile, Franklin County Common Pleas Court heard final oral arguments on the disputed central purchasing plan and took under advisement the suit seeking to nullify it.

The close vote at the school board came on appointment of seven regional coordinators, with the opposition demanding implementation wait until a court rules on the constitutionality of such public aid to parochial pupils, also in litigation.

Four coordinators were approved last month with no such general dispute.

The close vote this time came with Asst. Atty. Gen. William H. Grubbs maintaining the board had no choice but to proceed to set up the new system. That was a mandate from the 1965 legislature, he said, requiring compliance in the absence of any court order to hold up.

Board member Francis W. Spicer of Akron had offered a motion to delay any further action toward implementation until the pending court case brought by the Ohio Civil Liberties Union has been cleared. Walker of Adena ruled Spicer's motion improper and was sustained 14-5.

The board then proceeded on the "routine" motion to approve coordinators recommended by State Supt. E. E. Holt. The first vote was 10-8 against, before Francis Gaul of Cleveland switched to "yes" for a 9-9 tie which Walker broke with another "yes."

Member Robert Manchester of Canfield argued that the Ohio Department of Education could be caught with a lot of excess $9,000-$10,000 employees if a court killed the new bus law. Holt commented that they could be used on other transportation matters.

Gaul developed further controversy when he questioned hiring educators—those selected so far are largely principals and teachers—as transportation coordinators. He suggested transportation experts could do the job better and without creating vacancies in education's ranks.

Holt said he would study this idea but it might require different salaries.

In court, Judge Henry Holden gave no indication when he will rule on a suit by the Ohio Automobile Dealers Association and 20 bus body distributors protesting the centralized bus purchasing law.

The suit has practically halted bus purchases by Ohio districts. Some schools say they will face a transportation crisis if unable to buy new buses soon in anticipation of an added load next fall.

The board also accepted the superintendent's recommendations to:

Approve a joint vocational school district encompassing six

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — Earl Warren, 75 next Saturday, after 13 years on the Supreme Court is the strongest and most influential chief justice in American history, with the possible exception of John Marshall.

Marshall died in 1835 after 34 years as chief justice. He was not an intellectual, neither is Warren. Like Marshall, Warren is a tough-minded, practical man who is making the court a directly active force in American life and government.

Their effect will last forever in this country.

Before Marshall, who took his seat in 1801, the court had been so weak and little regarded that the very first chief justice, John Jay, a rich aristocrat, resigned to be governor of New York.

After a few years on the court, Warren, who had been governor of California three times, said, "I could not imagine going back to the other life."

Marshall made the court as strong as the presidency or Congress. He believed in the sovereignty of the federal government over the states and in the sanctity of private property. His court protected both.

The result was a strong central government which otherwise might have dwindled into a whisper. It laid the foundation for the future America.

Many times in the years that followed, the court was wishy-washy, timidly bowing to the will of Congress or the White House, particularly after the uproar over the reactionary court which invalidated the early part of President Franklin D. Roosevelt's New Deal.

For example: In 1896 the court ruled it was constitutional to segregate Negroes. In the next 58 years the court chipped away at this but never quite got up the courage of saying the 1896 decision itself was unconstitutional.

President Dwight D. Eisenhower appointed Warren chief justice in 1953 and a few months later, on May 17, 1954, the nine justices unanimously knocked out segregation and the 1896 ruling by outlawing segregation in public schools.

Swan Song?

Red China's Foreign Minister Chen Yi was in Canton attending a literary tea when Ghana's President Nkrumah arrived in Peking and learned his country had been lifted out from under him.

The occasion is noteworthy as far as Marshal Chen is concerned because this was the first in a long series of misfortunes for Peking that he hadn't been associated with. Last June Chen arrived in Algiers hours after a coup sent President Ben Bella, an acknowledged partisan of Peking, into oblivion.

In August, Chen barely had left In-

Half of '66 Brides Under 20

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Teen-age marriages are increasing, despite the fact that 50 per cent of them break up. About 14 out of every 100 teenage lads have said, "I do," and about half of all the brides wed this year will be under 20.

If you're taking your wife to Las Vegas, Nev., be sure she isn't wearing moccasins. Women in flat shoes, a survey found, could play the slot machines for four hours, those in high heels wore out in 2½ hours.

Speaking of high-heel shoes, King Louis IV of France is credited with making them himself. The pint-sized monarch wore a red pair at court functions to make himself look more impressive.

Prosperity note: The federal government will spend about $3.3 billion for education in 1966, or 20 times the sum it expended 10 years ago.

Durable b'r'er rabbit: Although hunters kill them by the tens of millions each year, cottontail rabbits still flourish as America's No. 1 game animal. Most never last through their first winter although rabbits have been known to live from seven to nine years. Their survival secret: One doe can have from 28 to 40 bunnies between spring and frost.

Quotable notables: "If you stop and think about it, you'll realize that three out of four people do not know exactly what they're doing a large part of the time" — Gelett Burgess.

Safety tip: You are about 40 times less likely to be killed in a commercial airliner than in an automobile. The fatality rate per 100,000 passenger miles is 5.7 for private cars, only 0.14 for the airlines.

History lesson: Can you name the most dangerous and the safest months for U.S. presidents? Well, seven died in July; none so far has died in May.

How to make yourself socially

more popular: Drinking sweet milk will eliminate breath odors caused by eating onions. Gulping lots of black coffee helps if you've indulged with garlic-flavored foods.

Quip: Actor Jason Robards says, "You can tell your children are growing up when you notice lipstick on your daughter's lips — and on the collar of the shirt your son borrowed from you."

You think you've heard of everything? Word comes from Hollywood that some zanies there are having "come as your favorite disease" parties.

Worth remembering: "The one thing worse than a quitter is the man who is afraid to begin."

Folklore: Fishing improves when the dogwood blossoms. If it rains on Monday, it'll rain at least three days. If a girl going through the woods picks up a crooked stick, she will later marry a worthless man. A young girl overly fond of cats will wind up as an old maid.

The Business World

NEW YORK (AP) — The big stock market drop may have done some damage to consumer and business confidence but so far there's little evidence of it.

Business plans to go on spending for expansion. And the total outlay grows larger with each tally. The decline in stock prices apparently is regarded as a passing event.

Consumers bought more in February than in January. Consumer installment debt continues high with little but seasonal variations noted by the finance companies.

So far as yet discernible, the big downturn in stock prices hasn't hurt the general belief that the economy will continue to expand. But it may well have nipped any runaway speculative fever in both consumers and business.

And if so, this would be welcomed by most government, business and banking leaders. A return to the caution that ruled the early years of the Soaring

Sixties could be a good thing for everyone.

Businessmen, for example, say they're going on increasing the size of their inventories. But they plan to hold the increases to smaller proportions than during the final months of 1965. Then inventories soared rapidly, leading many to fear that inflation fever had caught hold.

Manufacturers raised inventories by $1.7 billion in the last three months of 1965. In the first three months of this year they expect to add another billion to stocks of goods. But government economists are stressing not the billion gain but the $700 million loss in this quarter than in the preceding one.

The billion increase is regarded as a sign that business is expected to be enough better to require moderately larger inventories. The $700-million slower pace is interpreted as meaning that manufacturers aren't out to hoard the raw materials they need because of fear that rapid inflation of prices is on the way.

A fear that the economy was starting to overheat is one of the many reasons given for the almost steady decline of stock prices in February and the first half of March.

The announced intentions of businessmen to increase spending for new plant and equipment seemed to feed this fear that the economy was taking off on a dangerous boom.

The announced intentions of manufacturers to go on building up inventories but at a fairly moderate pace would seem to show that they didn't expect the economic expansion to get out of hand. And it also would seem to show that they aren't, as yet, too impressed by the ups and downs of the stock market.

Opportunities, Demands Explored in 4-H Program

In the next 10 years, more new workers than ever before will enter the labor force.

By 1970 there will be a 46 per cent increase in workers under 25 years of age. More jobs than ever before are demanding special education, particularly jobs for high school graduates who do not plan to go on to college.

There are 40,000 different kinds of job classifications, but 50 per cent of the high school students limit their preliminary choice to only 16 occupations. Youth and parents often are unrealistic in their aspirations.

Pressures sometimes force incapable young people into college, or keep well-qualified youth out of college. These facts concerning young people and careers have caused some Ohio Extension agents and advisers to help their 4-Hers explore career opportunities early.

For years tours to factories, dairies, manufacturing plants, and other places of business have provided 4-H boys and girls with "class rooms."

The College of Agriculture and Home Economics at The Ohio State University plans a day's program to help young people recognize opportunities that are available.

Panels of students help tell the story. Young visitors to the campus tour laboratories, classrooms and other facilities and hear staff members explain equipment and teaching materials. Time is allotted for the young people to ask questions.

Boys and girls are asking for help in choosing their careers. Leaders in 4-H believe career exploration should start early.

Advisers and Extension Agents, in setting up real life, learning - by-doing experiences, are helping boys and girls to see, and use to advantage opportunities that are available.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

STORY OF THE WEEK: St. Peter looked over a new assignment of male applicants for Heaven and ordered, "All the men who were hen-pecked on Earth will please line up on the left; all those who were absolute bosses in their own homes on the right." Without hesitation all but one of the applicants lined up on the left. St. Peter studied the frail little loner who chose the right and said, "What makes you think you belong on that side?" The loner explained meekly, "This is where my wife TOLD me to stand."

Veteran Comedian Ken Murray likes to recall the corny jokes with which he wowed audiences when he first broke into the big time. Lines like "I will now sing a touching ballad entitled 'Don't Chop the Wood Tonight, Mother: Daddy's Coming Home With a Load.'" Or "I know a man with a wooden leg named Smith, but I can't remember the name of his other leg." Or "No matter how sad a man may be, his blanket is always a comforter."

When all else failed, Murray would transform himself into a poet with such touching bits as:

"Once, when girls went out to swim,
They dressed like Mother Hubbard.
But now they aren't quite so prim:
They dress more like her cupboard."

What makes you think corny jokes have had their day, Mr. Murray? Ask a man who knows!

Few people past the age of 30, and some younger, have never been awakened in the middle of the night by a severe cramp in the legs. For some time this can be a terrifying experience, being awakened from a deep, comfortable sleep by a painful spasm of the leg muscles.

Similar cramps and painful spasms can also occur while awake, walking, swimming or playing sports.

Normally, blood flows freely to the muscles of the legs, bringing a sufficient amount of oxygen to the muscles. When that oxygen supply is diminished, and the muscles deprived of this valuable nutrient spasms or cramps occur.

The elderly usually have some slight to severe hardening of the arteries. Narrowing of the blood vessels result in a decrease of the blood supply, poor nourishment of the muscles and cramps.

There is one special, rather unique condition called Buerger's disease, in which the arteries to the arms and legs, hands and feet become severely narrowed.

Patients with this condition are stopped suddenly in their tracks while walking by a severely painful spasm of the legs. In fact, so strong is the spasm that walking becomes impossible and one must rest for a few minutes before continuing.

Strangely, this disease affects males whose parents come from the Mid-European countries.

There is undeniable evidence that tobacco is the single, most important factor that produces this condition.

Physicians everywhere have been gratified to see the control and even the cure of Buerger's disease following abstinence from tobacco.

There are, of course, many simple causes of leg cramps. Tight garters, bound down bed sheets and ill-fitting shoes can restrict the circulation of blood and produce leg cramps.

Private Freedom Academy

By John Chamberlain

Back in 1960 the U.S. Senate, by a voice vote, passed a bill authorizing the creation of a Freedom Academy. The idea was to set up a school capable of turning out professionals in psychological warfare just as West Point and Annapolis provide the country with pros in military warfare. But the bill failed in the House for a very odd reason: Representative Francis Walter, an anti-Communist from the word "go," was obsessed with the fear that if a Freedom Academy were set up, the Communists would succeed in penetrating it and taking it over. "Tad" Walter's spy phobia was sufficiently persuasive to kill the bill for 1960.

The Freedom Academy has never had a chance since then, but the locus of prime opposition to it has shifted to the Senate. In 1961 Senator Fulbright succeeded in bringing Freedom Academy suggestions within the jurisdiction of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, and thus a freedom Academy bill never seems to get to the Senate floor. This in spite of the fact that the idea has had bipartisan support from Senators as diverse as Democrats Paul Douglas of Illinois and Tom Dodd of Connecticut and Republican Karl Mundt of South Dakota. The House of Representatives committee on Un-American Activities has recommended the passage of a Freedom Academy bill in 1966, but with anti-Cold Warrior Fulbright still on guard in the Senate nothing is likely to come of it.

Well, maybe one shouldn't cry too much about this, for if a Freedom Academy were to be created as a government entity the U. S. State Department might try to subordinate its curriculum to the needs of official foreign policy. A government-sponsored Freedom Academy would certainly have to be hedged about with all sorts of guarantees of absolute autonomy, or it would tend to become a milk-and-water affair. What for example, would happen to a Freedom Academy "psywar" recommendation that we sell landing craft to Chiang Kai-shek when our State Department fears even an indirect confrontation with Red China? And what if a Freedom Academy were to counsel an embargo on grain shipments to any Communist nation that is helping the Viet Cong? This would run counter to our official "bridge building" policy, and the curriculum builders of a Freedom Academy would surely hear a thing or two from Foggy Bottom about interfering with the "national purpose."

But if the possibility of getting an absolutely autonomous government-sponsored Freedom Academy seems remote, it doesn't mean that we can get along with a method of countering the 6,000 schools in Communist bloc countries that teach psycho-political warfare. Fortunately, our deficiency in this matter is about to be remedied. A big complex of cooperating agencies including the American Security Council, the American Legion, the Cook County (Illinois) Schools, Northeastern University, Kansas State University, International House, the Oregon State Department of Education, and the C. W. Post College of Long Island University have purchased a large house and 671 acres near Boston, Virginia, in the Blue Ridge Mountains, where a private Freedom Academy called the Freedom Studies Center will be set up. The Institute for American Strategy will administer the new center.

The new Freedom Studies Center is a citizens' response to frustrations created in the U. S. Senate by anti-Cold Warrior Fulbright. Significantly, the co-chairmen of the Center are Senator Dodd of Connecticut and Senator Mundt of South Dakota. Other Senators on the advisory board are Peter Dominick, Republican of Colorado, Jack Miller, Republican of Iowa, Paul Douglas, Democrat of Illinois, and William Proxmire, Democrat of Wisconsin.

Senator Tom Dodd, who holds the Freedom Academy idea close to his heart, has been extremely effective in upholding the American position in the Cold War, and it is not surprising that he is hated by the "don't be beastly to the Communists" crowd. This group welcomes any effort to chop him down. But the recent attempt to give a sinister twist to his correspondence with General Julius Klein, a quiet legitimate representative of West German industry and the West German government, has backfired. It turns out that some twenty other legislators including Senator Javits have also praised Klein for competence and probity. The big concern in U. S. Senate anterooms these days is the safety of the legislators' files, for some one obviously got to Dodd without his permission.

Camping is a highlight of the 4-H program which members look forward to each year.

Any club member is eligible to go to camp. Here they participate in activities such as swimming, crafts, hiking, athletic contest, nature study, conservation, citizenship, stunts, vespers, campfire, singing and dancing.

Tar Hollow State Park is the site used for camping activities. Pickaway County 4-H members camp cooperatively with Ross County clubs. This, again, is one of the great values of 4-H camp — meeting new people and making new friends.

The 1966 program will offer four camp periods for members. The 9 to 10 year olds, or beginners, will camp June 18 to 21. Due to increased demand for reservations, and additional junior session for members 11-13 was added in 1965. This will be continued during 1966.

JUNIOR dates are June 21 to 25 for the first camp, and July 7 to 11 for the second. The fourth period will be for senior camp — members 14 years and up. This session will be held June 20 to July 3.

The 4-H club camp enrollment for 1965 reached an all-time high of 414 members. This is 40 per cent of the total club enrollment and ranks highest in the state in regard to percentage.

Older club members are selected for counselors for all camp activities. This gives older ones an opportunity to exercise their leadership ability as cabin counselors and group leaders in all activities.

These older members are significant contributors to success of each camp period.

Counselors must be 14 years old and must have attended 4-H camp in some previous year so that they are aware of camp facilities. They serve for only one camp period. This allows opportunity for more youths to serve as camp counselors.

Members who have made outstanding contributions towards the total county 4-H club program may also have the opportunity for selection to attend one of the state sponsored 4-H camps. These camps are Junior Leadership, Conservation and Forestry.

As members grow into adulthood one of their most cherished experiences will have been their 4-H camp activities.

Swan Song?

Red China's Foreign Minister Chen Yi was in Canton attending a literary tea when Ghana's President Nkrumah arrived in Peking and learned his country had been lifted out from under him.

The occasion is noteworthy as far as Marshal Chen is concerned because this was the first in a long series of misfortunes for Peking that he hadn't been associated with. Last June Chen arrived in Algiers hours after a coup sent President Ben Bella, an acknowledged partisan of Peking, into oblivion.

In August, Chen barely had left Indonesia when an attempted coup and counter-coup bottled up Sukarno. A couple of months ago, Chen assembled a delegation that suffered the discomfort of listening to Fidel Castro castigate Peking before a gathering of revolutionaries from Asia, Africa and Latin America.

These events may have inspired Jen-min Jih Pao, official organ of the Chinese communist party, to note that progress in the revolutionary struggle "is often intermingled with reverses," and warned that forces headed by the United States "may gain the upper hand for the time being."

Half of '66 Brides Under 20

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Teen-age marriages are increasing, despite the fact that 50 per cent of them break up. About 14 out of every 100 teen-age lads have said, "I do," and about half of all the brides wed this year will be under 20.

If you're taking your wife to Las Vegas, Nev., be sure she isn't wearing moccasins. Women in flat shoes, a survey found, could play the slot machines for four hours, those in high heels wore out in 2½ hours.

Speaking of high-heel shoes. King Louis IV of France is credited with making them himself. The pint-sized monarch wore a red pair at court functions to make himself look more impressive.

Prosperity note: The federal government will spend about $3.3 billion for education in 1966, or 20 times the sum it expended 10 years ago.

Durable br'er rabbit: Although hunters kill them by the tens of millions each year, cottontail rabbits still flourish as America's No. 1 game animal. Most never last through their first winter although rabbits have been known to live from seven to nine years. Their survival secret: One doe can have from 28 to 40 bunnies between spring and frost.

Quotable notables: "If you stop and think about it, you'll realize that three out of four people do not know exactly what they're doing a large part of the time" — Gelett Burgess.

Safety tip: You are about 40 times less likely to be killed in a commercial airliner than in an automobile. The fatality rate per 100,000 passenger miles is 5.7 for private cars, only 0.14 for the airlines.

History lesson: Can you name the most dangerous and the safest months for U.S. presidents? Well, seven died in July; none so far has died in May.

How to make yourself socially

more popular: Drinking sweet milk will eliminate breath odors caused by eating onions. Gulping lots of black coffee helps if you've indulged with garlic-flavored foods.

Quip: Actor Jason Robards says, "You can tell your children are growing up when you notice lipstick on your daughter's lips — and on the collar of the shirt your son borrowed from you."

You think you've heard of everything? Word comes from Hollywood that some zanies there are having "come as your favorite disease" parties.

Worth remembering: "The one thing worse than a quitter is the man who is afraid to begin."

Folklore: Fishing improves when the dogwood blossoms. If it rains on Monday, it'll rain at least three days. If a girl going through the woods picks up a crooked stick, she will later marry a worthless man. A young girl overly fond of cats will wind up as an old maid.

The Business World

NEW YORK (AP) — The big stock market drop may have done some damage to consumer and business confidence but so far there's little evidence of it.

Business plans to go on spending for expansion. And the total outlay grows larger with each tally. The decline in stock prices apparently is regarded as a passing event.

Consumers bought more in February than in January. Consumer installment debt continues high with little but seasonal variations noted by the finance companies.

So far as yet discernible, the big downturn in stock prices hasn't hurt the general belief that the economy will continue to expand. But it may well have nipped any runaway speculative fever in both consumers and business.

And if so, this would be welcomed by most government, business and banking leaders. A return to the caution that ruled the early years of the Soaring

Sixties could be a good thing for everyone.

Businessmen, for example, say they're going on increasing the size of their inventories. But they plan to hold the increases to smaller proportions than during the final months of 1965. Then inventories soared rapidly, leading many to fear that inflation fever had caught hold.

Manufacturers raised inventories by $1.7 billion in the last three months of 1965. In the first three months of this year they expect to add another billion to stocks of goods. But government economists are stressing not the billion gain but the $700 million less in this quarter than in the preceding one.

The billion increase is regarded as a sign that business is expected to be enough better to require moderately larger inventories. The $700-million slower pace is interpreted as meaning that manufacturers aren't out to hoard the raw materials they need because of fear that rapid inflation of prices is on the way.

A fear that the economy was starting to overheat is one of the many reasons given for the almost steady decline of stock prices in February and the first half of March.

The announced intentions of businessmen to increase spending for new plant and equipment seemed to feed this fear that the economy was taking off on a dangerous boom.

The announced intentions of manufacturers to go on building up inventories but at a fairly moderate pace would seem to show that they didn't expect the economic expansion to get out of hand. And it also would seem to show that they aren't, as yet, too impressed by the ups and downs of the stock market.

Urban, suburban and rural boys work together in 4-H clubs. They have a choice of nearly 50 projects ranging from electricity to livestock.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

STORY OF THE WEEK: St. Peter looked over a new contingent of male applicants for Heaven and ordered, "All the men who were hen-pecked on Earth will please line up on the left; all those who were absolute bosses in their own homes on the right." Without hesitation all but one of the applicants lined up on the left. St. Peter studied the frail little loner who chose the right and said, "What makes you think you belong on that side?"

The loner explained meekly, "This is where my wife TOLD me to stand."

Veteran Comedian Ken Murray likes to recall the corny jokes with which he wowed audiences when he first broke into the big time. Lines like "I will now sing a touching ballad entitled 'Don't Chop the Wood Tonight, Mother: Daddy's Coming Home With a Load.'" Or "I know a man with a wooden leg named Smith, but I can't remember the name of his other leg." Or "No matter how sad a man may be, his blanket is always a comforter."

When all else failed, Murray would transform himself into a poet with such touching bits as:

"Once, when girls went out to swim,
They dressed like Mother Hubbard.
But now they aren't quite so prim:
They dress more like her cupboard."

What makes you think corny jokes have had their day, Mr. Murray? Ask a man who knows!

McIlwain, Reams Rip GOP Record

WASHINGTON COURT HOUSE, Ohio (AP)—State Sen. Frazier Reams Jr. and State Rep. Harry H. McIlwain buried the hatchet again when their campaign paths crossed here.

The rival candidates for Democratic choice in May to oppose Gov. James A. Rhodes in November's election posed amiably together for a picture and teamed up in attacking the Republican administration Monday night.

Reams, from Toledo, and McIlwain, from Cincinnati, hadn't known until noon Monday that both their schedules called for appearances at the same hotel here the same evening.

Reams made his scheduled address at the Kiwanis Club at 6:15. McIlwain delivered his 7:30 talk to the Fayette County Democratic Club then Reams appeared following McIlwain.

Both candidates accused the Rhodes administration of failing to keep promises in the fields of education, mental health and "no new taxes." They cited what they termed shifting of tax burdens to the local level to support welfare and education, and promised if elected to work to revamp Ohio's tax structure to bolster "essential" programs.

U.S. High School Kids 'Shout' for Viet Policy

WATERBURY, Conn. (AP)—A group of seniors at the Wolcott High School want high school kids across the country to "shout" their support of U.S. policies in Viet Nam.

They are asking some 12 million high school pupils in more than 17,000 schools in the nation to sign petitions.

The petitions have been prepared and are being mailed to the schools by a group calling itself Students Approve Vietnam Effort, or SAVE.

The idea was born in a contemporary issues course for seniors conducted at Wolcott by Robert F. Carroll.

Carroll, the faculty sponsor and adviser for SAVE, said the project began as a direct result of President Johnson's plea to the American people to "shout" and make their views heard on Viet Nam.

A committee headed by senior Ronald Berthony organized the campaign.

Copies of the SAVE petition calling for support of U.S. policy in Viet Nam were mailed last week to principals in more than 17,000 high schools in all 50 states.

Carroll, a social science teacher, estimated that the project would cost about $7,000 if the pupils had to pay all the bills. Paper companies donated paper, envelopes, ink and other supplies.

A local printer donated about $900 worth of free work. A list of high schools was provided by a company printing such a list for a federal agency.

None of the companies that made donations wants to be identified.

"The companies don't want any credit," said Carroll. "And the printer doesn't want any. They all think the credit should go to the students."

After the petitions are returned from each state to Wolcott, the results will be sent to the senators and representatives of that state.

The over-all results will be sent to President Johnson.

More Ohio Schools Setting Up 'Land Labs'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — More and more Ohio schools are using the grounds around their buildings for laboratories.

Instead of landscaping school grounds with grass and carefully planted trees, a growing number of districts are turning grounds into "land laboratories" used in connection with classroom teaching.

Since the first such "land lab" was recognized in the Columbus suburb of Pataskala about three years ago, more than 100 schools have installed such facilities.

These range from a 39 by 49 foot plot of ground at a Berea Elementary School to sites of 100 acres or more. The land projects range from tiny plots where grade school children tend flowers to large areas planted in trees.

One school netted $1,600 one year from selling Christmas trees and greenery off its forest plot, said Robert R. Finlay, supervisor of conservation and outdoor education for the State Education Department. He helps schools set up such programs.

Land labs are valuable additions to school programs at relatively little cost, Finlay said. "You can develop a terrific outdoor lab without the school board spending a cent, really, or a very few cents," he said. About all that's required is land, a few tools and some seeds—plus imaginative teachers, he added.

"We try to involve as many classes as we can get in it," he said.

Biology and botany classes find natural uses for land labs. But art classes can use them to teach sketching, industrial arts classes can benefit by making things for the labs, even mathematics classes can find them useful as practical places to try surveying.

Vocational agriculture classes in some schools use the labs for experiments as well as teaching.

Even English classes or business courses can be fitted into a land lab program, Finlay said. He explained in many cases these students prepare literature explaining features of the land programs or guides to nature trails developed in them.

Some land labs actually save money, Finlay said.

By using school grounds for land labs, instead of landscaping them, the school saves the cost of landscaping and the expense of such maintenance as mowing grass. Students can be taught to prune shrubs, fight insects and handle similar maintenance problems and learn while they are working, he said.

Some of the larger land labs include ponds, fruit trees, even flower gardens which youngsters tend all summer.

In some cases, federal funds can be obtained to help set up land laboratories, Finlay said, and trees and seeds can be obtained free or at low cost.

Land labs are easier to set up when new schools are built. It's cheaper that way, too, but Finlay said the hardest part of establishing a new land lab can come during construction.

"Our biggest job," he explained, "is keeping the architect and contractor from fouling up the site . . . we prefer to keep it as natural as possible."

Hollywood Gives Prince Colorful, Royal Reception

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Louis Armstrong said it best — in song:

"Hello, Philip . . . Well, hello, Philip."

Parodying his famous "Hello, Dolly" singing, Satchmo ad-libbed at a Variety Clubs banquet Monday night.

"We cats over here dig you. Give by regards to the missus."

Prince Philip, husband of Queen Elizabeth II, laughed and applauded.

Today the handsome prince, 44, the Duke of Edinburgh, flies his British prop-jet plane to Chicago, continuing a charity tour that has raised $520,000.

That much, it was announced at the banquet, came from his appearances in Miami, Houston and here. Three more stops remain — in Chicago, New York and Toronto — giving promise of fulfilling a goal of $1 million for the clubs' international work for underprivileged children. Hollywood — for a change itself celebrity-struck — poured forth the cream of its talent at the banquet.

"Here we are, sir," Joey Bishop told Philip, "the prince and the pauper."

The black-tie and mink-clad crowd of 1,100 contributed $250,000 to the charity fund.

As the gold-festooned head table with Philip were Shirley MacLaine, Natalie Wood, Cary Grant, Jack Benny, Dean Martin, Tony Martin, Gregory Peck, Kirk Douglas, Danny Kaye and Jack Lemmon.

Wherever he went in his 65-hour Southern California visit — airport, a polo game, a university — Philip was a hit.

Hundreds pressed around for a glimpse. He shook thousands of hands.

He was a deft and witty speaker.

Receiving an honorary doctor of laws degree Monday at the University of California at Los Angeles, he told an audience of 8,000 students and capped-and-gowned faculty:

"I have accumulated quite a long list of degrees in recent years. I hardly need add that they are all honorary — something described as getting your education by degrees."

He spoke on the profitable use of leisure, saying enlightened leaders in universities should show the way.

He visited a display of British cars and motorcycles, and at a Sunday night reception he plugged British exports: "If you buy from us, we could buy more from you."

Twentieth-Century-Fox staged a royal luncheon for 500 Monday on a Western street movie set.

Ohio Man, Girl Friend Are Nabbed

NEW YORK (AP) — FBI agents arrested an Ohioan and his girl friend Monday after noticing the man on a street and tallying his looks with a "wanted" photo of a Maryland jail-breaker.

In custody are Henry Allen Molter, 34, alleged armed robber who gave his home town as Fostoria, Ohio, and Mrs. Dorothy Corbin, 35, who Molter told the U. S. attorney's office also is from Fostoria.

Molter was seized on the street and Mrs. Corbin at the nearby apartment they had been sharing after the Feb. 14—Valentine's Day—jailbreak at Cambridge, Md. The woman is charged with aiding and abetting.

Molter is accused of the $2,432 robbery of a savings and loan office at Detroit, Mich., last Aug. 3, and involvement in a $30,000 armed robbery at Cambridge, Md.

The FBI originally captured Molter last Nov. 20 in a Knoxville, Tenn., hotel. He was taken to Cambridge where he was charged with beating and robbing Mr. and Mrs. William Jones in their home Nov. 15, but eventually escaped jail.

He was arraigned Monday on federal charges covering the Detroit robbery, held in lieu of $50,000 bond for a hearing next Monday and taken to the federal detention center. Officials weren't certain whether to return him to Michigan or Maryland.

Mrs. Corbin, described as a blonde mother of seven, was turned over to New York City Police.

Molter has a wife and three children in Fostoria, he told authorities.

Juvenile Faces Burglary Counts

A juvenile apprehended last week by the Pickaway County Sheriff's Department for auto larceny has admitted to several burglaries, it was reported by Sheriff Dwight Radcliff.

The burglaries included a home in Pickaway Twp. where a radio valued at $80 was taken, Gold Cliff Park where money was stolen and two entries at another Pickaway Twp. home.

McIlwain, Reams Rip GOP Record

WASHINGTON COURT HOUSE, Ohio (AP)—State Sen. Frazier Reams Jr. and State Rep. Harry H. McIlwain buried the hatchet again when their campaign paths crossed here.

The rival candidates for Democratic choice in May to oppose Gov. James A. Rhodes in November's election posed amiably together for a picture and teamed up in attacking the Republican administration Monday night.

Reams, from Toledo, and McIlwain, from Cincinnati, hadn't known until noon Monday that both their schedules called for appearances at the same hotel here the same evening.

Reams made his scheduled address at the Kiwanis Club at 6:15. McIlwain delivered his 7:30 talk to the Fayette County Democratic Club then Reams appeared following McIlwain.

Both candidates accused the Rhodes administration of failing to keep promises in the fields of education, mental health and "no new taxes." They cited what they termed shifting of tax burdens to the local level to support welfare and education, and promised if elected to work to revamp Ohio's tax structure to bolster "essential" programs.

U.S. High School Kids 'Shout' for Viet Policy

WATERBURY, Conn. (AP)—A group of seniors at the Wolcott High School want high school kids across the country to "shout" their support of U.S. policies in Viet Nam.

They are asking some 12 million high school pupils in more than 17,000 schools in the nation to sign petitions.

The petitions have been prepared and are being mailed to the schools by a group calling itself Students Approve Vietnam Effort, or SAVE.

The idea was born in a contemporary issues course for seniors conducted at Wolcott by Robert F. Carroll.

Carroll, the faculty sponsor and adviser for SAVE, said the project began as a direct result of President Johnson's plea to the American people to "shout" and make their views heard on Viet Nam.

A committee headed by senior Ronald Berthoff organized the campaign.

Copies of the SAVE petition calling for support of U.S. policy in Viet Nam were mailed last week to principals in more than 17,000 high schools in all 50 states.

Carroll, a social science teacher, estimated that the project would cost about $7,000 if the pupils had to pay all the bills.

Paper companies donated paper, envelopes, ink and other supplies.

A local printer donated about $900 worth of free work. A list of high schools was provided by a company printing such a list for a federal agency.

None of the companies that made donations wants to be identified.

"The companies don't want any credit," said Carroll. "And the printer doesn't want any. They all think the credit should go to the students."

After the petitions are returned from each state to Wolcott, the results will be sent to the senators and representatives of that state.

The over-all results will be sent to President Johnson.

More Ohio Schools Setting Up 'Land Labs'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—More and more Ohio schools are using the grounds around their buildings for laboratories.

Instead of landscaping school grounds with grass and carefully planted trees, a growing number of districts are turning grounds into "land laboratories" used in connection with classroom teaching.

Since the first such "land lab" was recognized in the Columbus suburb of Pataskala about three years ago, more than 100 schools have installed such facilities.

These range from a 39 by 49 foot plot of ground at a Berea Elementary School to sites of 100 acres or more. The land projects range from tiny plots where grade school children tend flowers to large areas planted in trees.

One school netted $1,600 one year from selling Christmas trees and greenery off its forest plot, said Robert R. Finlay, supervisor of conservation and outdoor education for the State Education Department. He helps schools set up such programs.

Land labs are valuable additions to school programs at relatively little cost, Finlay said. "You can develop a terrific outdoor lab without the school board spending a cent, really, or a very few cents," he said. About all that's required is land, a few tools and some seeds—plus imaginative teachers, he added.

"We try to involve as many classes as we can get in it," he said.

Biology and botany classes find natural uses for land labs. But art classes can use them to teach sketching, industrial arts classes can benefit by making things for the labs, even mathematics classes can find them useful as practical places to try surveying.

Vocational agriculture classes in some schools use the labs for experiments as well as teaching.

Even English classes or business courses can be fitted into a land lab program, Finlay said. He explained in many cases these students prepare literature explaining features of the land programs or guides to nature trails developed in them.

Some land labs actually save money, Finlay said.

By using school grounds for land labs, instead of landscaping them, the school saves the cost of landscaping and the expense of such maintenance as mowing grass. Students can be taught to prune shrubs, fight insects and handle similar maintenance problems and learn while they are working, he said.

Some of the larger land labs include ponds, fruit trees, even flower gardens which youngsters tend all summer.

In some cases, federal funds can be obtained to help set up land laboratories, Finlay said, and trees and seeds can be obtained free or at low cost.

Land labs are easier to set up when new schools are built. It's cheaper that way, too, but Finlay said the hardest part of establishing a new land lab can come during construction.

"Our biggest job," he explained, "is keeping the architect and contractor from fouling up the site. . . we prefer to keep it as natural as possible."

Navy Will Make a Man of Him

DEAR ABBY: Our son joined the navy two years ago. He is now assigned to submarine duty off the coast of Japan. He keeps sending us pictures, and everyone we show them to says he looks like he has had one too many. The one today really set me to wondering. He is standing between two Japanese girls who look like they're holding him up. Please don't think I am an old fogey who expects his 21-year-old son to be an angel, because I'm not. I thought of writing to the commander of his ship, but I don't know his name. Is there some way I can get someone over there to keep an eye on him so he doesn't get into any trouble? He's always been such a good boy.

PARAGOULD, ARK.
DEAR PARAGOULD: If there's anything a sailor, assigned to submarine duty off the coast of Japan has plenty of, it's people "keeping an eye on him" to see that he doesn't get into trouble. Don't worry, Dad. By this time your son is probably an expert on handling himself in deep water.

DEAR ABBY: My wife took a course in volunteer nursing and she works at a local hospital several days a week. I think she is to be admired for this, but it has created a problem. She has been bringing home scissors, bandages, tape, thermometers, vaseline, and anything she can get her hands on.

Premier's Wife Can Cook, Pilot Plane, Handle Pistol

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Imagine a premier with a wife who can cook, draw a gun in Wyatt Earp style, copilot a DC3, speak three languages, and is only 24 years old.

The premier is Nguyen Cao Ky, 35. He is also air vice marshal and commander of the South Vietnamese air force.

His wife, Mai Ky, combines

the cool grace of a duchess with the bubbly spirit of a pixie.

Her home is a drab barracks at the big air base of Tan Son Nhut.

Just outside the door are a helicopter pad and an armed chopper the premier flies.

Inside the house is Mai with her 7-month-old daughter named Duyen, which means "The Wonderful Love Story." Ky's two sons from his previous marriage are apt to be kicking a football around. There is of course household help, for prime ministers need them.

Still, it is a primitive home. It was redecorated when the Kys married, at the expense of the air force. At Ky picked up the tab and his wife says "We are paying it back so much a month."

This kind of humility is new in Viet Nam. Ky cut his own wage in half when he took this job last July. He also announced he would not be a candidate for the premier's office when elections are held in 1967.

"I am not a politician," Ky said. Mai rather hopes he means it. A Vietnamese airline hostess for three years, Mai met the general — the way he likes to be addressed — at an officer's ball. They fell in love.

the crossed leg first clockwise, then counter — clockwise.

2. Sit down, legs out in front, feet off the floor. Push toes downward and point as a ballet dancer would. Then pull toes up quickly toward you. Don't move legs — only feet.

3. Stand with heels on the floor, toes on the edge of a telephone directory. Raise heels off the floor and down again. Repeat.

General Care: Use a little sense in caring for your feet and they won't trouble you.

For example, when they are tired, give them a rest. Remove shoes and sit with feet elevated. You'll be amazed at how much better your feet will feel after relaxing them this way.

Also, choose your shoes with care. Don't get on your high heels if you're literally going to spend the day on your feet. Instead, wear sensible heels, saving your spikes for dress-up occasions.

Above all, don't be a bathroom surgeon. Removing corns and calluses is a job for a podiatrist — not for you!

Frug, Watusi Are 'Out,' Latest Step Is 'Philly-Dog'

NEW YORK (AP) — Go ahead and Monkey if you can do it Boston style, and Jerk if you can do it discreetly. But beware the Frug and Watusi. They could destroy your social image completely.

That's the word from the discotheques and dance studios around town that make it their business to keep their juke boxes attuned to the pulse of the bump and grind set.

From one of the most famous of the discotheques, Arthur, word has leaked that to be really up to date, you should be the first on your block to learn a dance called the Philly-Dog.

So what's the Philly-Dog? It reportedly was imported to New York from Philadelphia, the town that gave the word Chubby Checker and his Twist, a dance that now is not even mentioned in the "in" circles because it has been "out" so long.

Most people have never heard of the Philly-Dog, but it seems certain that if a name catches on, someone is bound to make up a dance step to go with it.

"I've never heard of it, but I'm certain I could do it," one observer remarked. "The popular dances are all the same basic movements with slight variation on which part of the body is tilted, turned, twisted, twirled or otherwise disturbed."

A spokesman for the Arthur Murray dance studios disagreed. "They are not all the same at all," she said. "In the plain Monkey, dancers just moved their arms. That's out now, but the Boston Monkey is in. That's the old Monkey movements with a turning motion added like you're sprinkling suds." In other words, you act like a monkey and add a twist of the Twist, and you're all set. Or if you prefer, you can waddle like a duck. The Duck is simply twisting of the pelvis. No quacking is required, but a little couldn't hurt.

He keeps sending us pictures, and everyone we show them to says he looks like he has had one too many. The one today really set me to wondering. He is standing between two Japanese girls who look like they're holding him up. Please don't think I am an old fogey who expects his 21-year-old son to be an angel, because I'm not. I thought of writing to the commander of his ship, but I don't know his name. Is there some way I can get someone over there to keep an eye on him so he doesn't get into any trouble? He's always been such a good boy.

PARAGOULD, ARK.
DEAR PARAGOULD: If there's anything a sailor, assigned to submarine duty off the coast of Japan has plenty of, it's people "keeping an eye on him to see that he doesn't get into trouble." Don't worry, Dad. By this time your son is probably an expert on handling himself in deep water.

DEAR ABBY: My wife took a course in volunteer nursing and she works at a local hospital several days a week. I think she is to be admired for this, but it has created a problem. She has been bringing home scissors, bandages, tape, thermometers, vaseline, and anything she can get her hands on.

Premier's Wife Can Cook, Pilot Plane, Handle Pistol

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Imagine a premier with a wife who can cook, draw a gun in Wyatt Earp style, pilot a DC3, speak three languages, and is only 24 years old.

The premier is Nguyen Cao Ky, 35. He is also air vice marshal and commander of the South Vietnamese air force.

His wife, Mai Ky, combines

the cool grace of a duchess with the bubbly spirit of a pixie.

Her home is a drab barracks at the big air base of Tan Son Nhut.

Just outside the door are a helicopter pad and an armed chopper the premier flies.

Inside the house is Mai with her 7-month-old daughter named Duyen, which means "The Wonderful Love Story."

Ky's two sons from his previous marriage are apt to be kicking a football around. There is of course household help, for prime ministers need them.

Still, it is a primitive home. It was redecorated when the Kys married, at the expense of the air force. Ky picked up the tab and his wife says "We are paying it back so much a month."

This kind of humility is new in Viet Nam. Ky cut his own wage in half when he took this job last July. He also announced he would not be a candidate for the premier's office when elections are held in 1967.

"I am not a politician," Ky said.

Mai rather hopes he means it. A Vietnamese airline hostess for three years, Mai met the general — the way he likes to be addressed — at an officer's ball. They fell in love.

the crossed leg first clockwise, then counter-clockwise.

2. Sit down, legs out in front, feet off the floor. Push toes downward and point as a ballet dancer would. Then pull toes up quickly toward you. Don't move legs — only feet.

3. Stand with heels on the floor, toes on the edge of a telephone directory. Raise heels off the floor and down again. Repeat.

General Care: Use a little sense in caring for your feet and they won't trouble you.

For example, when they are tired, give them a rest. Remove shoes and sit with feet elevated. You'll be amazed at how much better your feet will feel after relaxing them this way.

Also, choose your shoes with care. Don't get on your high heels if you're literally going to spend the day on your feet. Instead, wear sensible heels, saving your spikes for dress-up occasions.

Above all, don't be a bathroom surgeon. Removing corns and callouses is a job for a podiatrist — not for you!

Frug, Watusi Are 'Out,' Latest Step Is 'Philly-Dog'

NEW YORK (AP) — Go ahead and Monkey if you can do it Boston style, and Jerk if you can do it discreetly. But beware the Frug and Watusi. They could destroy your social image completely.

That's the word from the discotheques and dance studios around town that make it their business to keep their juke boxes attuned to the pulse of the bump and grind set.

From one of the most famous of the discotheques, Arthur, word has leaked that to be really up to date, you should be the first on your block to learn a dance called the Philly-Dog.

So what's the Philly-Dog?

It reportedly was imported to New York from Philadelphia, the town that gave the word Chubby Checker and his Twist, a dance that now is not even mentioned in the "in" circles because it has been "out" so long.

Most people have never heard of the Philly-Dog, but it seems certain that if a name catches on, someone is bound to make up a dance step to go with it.

"I've never heard of it, but I'm certain I could do it," one observer remarked. "The popular dances are all the same basic movements with slight variation on which part of the body is tilted, turned, twisted, twitched or otherwise disturbed."

A spokesman for the Arthur Murray dance studios disagreed. "They are not all the same at all," she said. "In the plain Monkey, dancers just moved their arms. That's out now, but the Boston Monkey is in. That's the old Monkey movements with a turning motion added like you're sprinkling suds."

In other words, you act like a monkey and add a twist of the twist, and you're all set.

Or if you prefer, you can waddle like a duck. The Duck is simply twisting of the pelvis. No quacking is required, but a little couldn't hurt.

Willie Mays Still Shows Top Form

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Willie Mays, the National League's Most Valuable Player of 1965, shows no signs of slowing down this spring.

In his first three exhibition games, playing only the first half of each, he has hit two home runs and thrown two opposing base runners out at home plate.

Despite the rigors of the winter banquet circuit, he reported to camp just four pounds over his usual playing weight of 186 and says he feels just great.

Personally, he doesn't want much mention of his spring exploits, declaring:

"Every spring it's the same old stuff. You mention how old I am. Let's just let it be fun. Just let me play."

Mays, 34, who hit a career high of 52 homers last year to lead the major leagues, opened his spring campaign with a run-scoring double on the first pitch from Cleveland's Gary Bell and drove in two more tallies before retiring after the fifth inning.

He homered over the right-field fence in Phoenix Municipal Stadium on Sunday at the expense of Cleveland's Lee Stange and over the left-field fence on Monday off Chicago's Larry Jackson. Both clouts carried more than 400 feet.

RAIL-BIRD—Rail-birds of a feather flock together, to be sure, and this pigeon, called "Nun," goes with Tony Gallego of the E. B. Carpenter stable around the Hialeah track for daily workouts.

Former Coach At Yellow Springs

Paul Reiss, former Circleville High School basketball coach, is mentor of Yellow Springs High School, one of the 16 Class A cage teams still in tournament competition.

Scheduled to play in the Troy regional along with Newark Catholic, Batavia and Dixie, Yellow Springs has a record of 14 wins and eight losses.

Reiss coached the Tiger cagers during the 1962-63 school year. They had a record of 6-13 that season, including ten losses in South Central Ohio League action.

He was also coached two years at Walnut Twp. High School immediately preceding the Teays Valley School District consolidation.

Soapbox Derby Grandstand OK'd

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Service Director David W. Zimmer has disclosed plans for a $1.1 million program by Chevrolet to build concrete grandstands and related facilities at Derby Downs, the site of the annual All-American Soap Box Derby sponsored by Chevrolet.

Zimmer said Monday that top Chevrolet and General Motors Corp. officials must be sold on the idea, which is a brainchild of Chevrolet's public relations staff but he added "it's all speedy approval of the four-year program from officials in Detroit could mean a start on the project this spring."

Sophomore Pitcher Seeks Tribe Berth

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Add a new name to the list of Cleveland Indians hopefuls—pitcher Alan Closter.

"That's the first time I saw him, but he looked pretty good to me," said manager Birdie Tebbetts after the Tribe beat the California Angels, 5-2, in an exhibition game Monday.

Closter, a 22-year-old sophomore listed as a first-year man, pitched two innings and didn't allow a hit. He walked one and struck out three.

Mace Trains 14 Head at Van Camp's

By STEVE JONES
Each year the harness racing season begins a little earlier and this year is no exception.

Jim Mace, who is training a stable of 14 head at George Van Camp's track just north of Circleville on County Road 511, already has two horses on the circuit at Chicago, Ill.

Speed Limit, a pacer owned by Frances Cloud of Ashville and Jim's wife Joan, placed second at Sportsmen's Park with the nation's leading harness horse driver, Bob Farrington in the sulky.

Battle Star, a trotter with a mark of 2:06.3, is slated for its first start this week. A son of Battle Prince, the trotter is owned by Waldo King of Scio.

KING also owns Ohio Law, a 4-year-old pacer by Ohio Worth.

In addition to Speed Limit, Mace is training two other pacers owned by Frances Cloud and his wife. They are Sidney M, a pacer with a mark of 2:02.1 and sired by Jerry the First, and Meadow Elsa, by

Ross Horsemen Schedule Their Annual Banquet

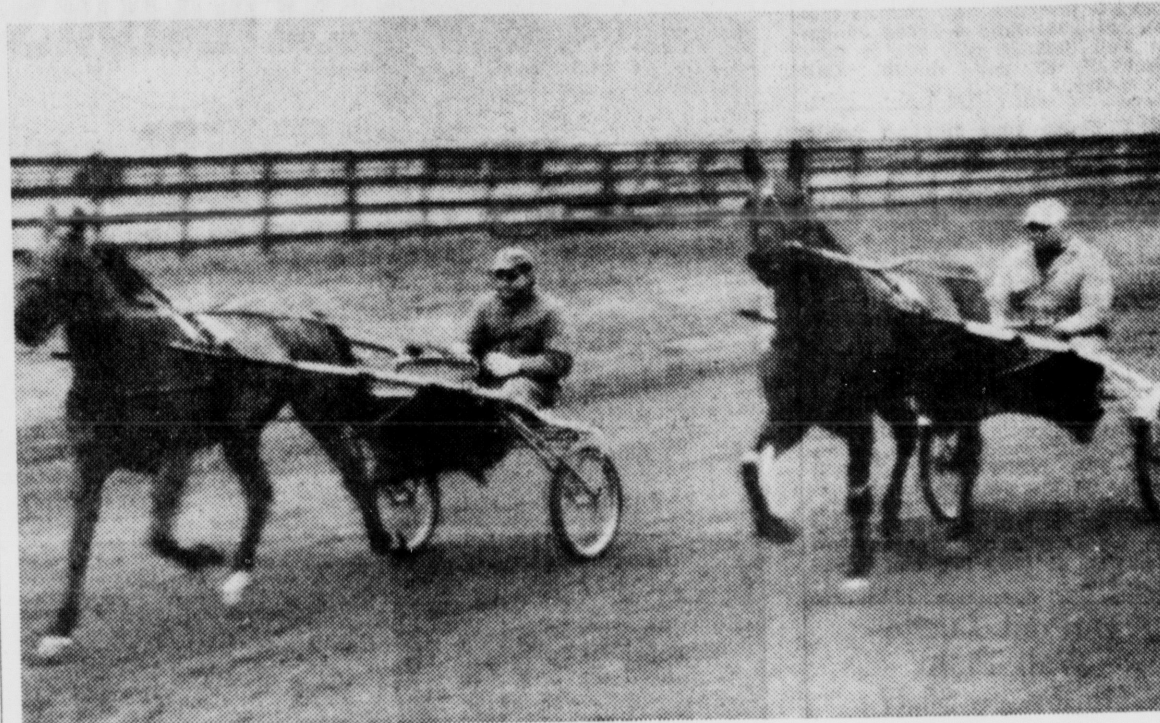

The annual Ross County Horsemen's banquet is scheduled March 26 at Holiday Inn, Chillicothe, it has been announced by Emmett Ebenhack president.

A social hour has been scheduled from 6:30 to 7:30 p. m. Dinner will be served at 7:30 p. m. and an interesting program is on tap following the meal, Ebenhack said.

The program will include films of the Little Brown Jug, the Hambletonian, and the "Billy Houghton Story".

Among the guest speakers are Wayne (Curly) Smart of Delaware, and Dr. J. P. Gardner, Kingston veterinarian who is well known for his original poetry on horses.

Gerald Mahle, St. John's (New York) University half mile runner, is the only out-of-state man on the Redmen's track team. He's from Fort Lee, N. J.

Adios Harry. The latter has paced the mile in 2:04.2.

Mrs. Mace also holds joint ownership in a colt by Berrymite with Marilyn Arledge of Circleville. The promising 2-year-old filly is Berry Gal.

Franklin Rhoads has four horses currently being trained by Mace. They include two colts, Harry the First and April Scamp. The former is a pacer by Harry's Dream, while the latter was sired by Berrymite.

Star, a 4-year-old by Hodgen and Fair Indian, a three-year-old by Royal Valley are the other two.

For George Duma of Clinton, he has Easy Joe, a pacer that has gone the mile in 2:07.1.

WALDO KING and Hobart Stroud of Scio, have Famous Jenko in Mace's Stable.

Rounding out the string of horses are Stormy Steamie, a pacer owned by Arthur Mace, and sired by the famous Steamie' Demon and Pilot M. a 3-year-old pacer by Air Pilot. The latter is owned by Frank Mace.

As soon as Northfield Park in Cleveland opens in mid-April, Mace expects to move out of his training quarters at Van Camp's stable.

The annual Pickaway County Spring Harness Matinee is scheduled April 24, the following week.

Triple Bogey Keeps Cassidy From Qualifying at Orlando

Tom Cassidy shot a triple bogey on his first hole in attempting to qualify for Monday's Open at Orlando, Fla., and missed the cut by just three strokes.

Starting on the 10th tee, the former Pickaway Country Club pro carded a seven on the par four hole.

For the other 17 holes he played an even par. Although his putting is beginning to improve, Cassidy said he is "still not satisfied with my game."

The next stop for Cassidy is the Jacksonville Open next week.

Although his game from tee to green has been adequate for the most part, his putting has been causing some problems.

Cassidy has been backed on the tour by a group of men that includes several persons from Circleville as well as his home town, Marietta.

Middie Pilot Itches Again For State Tourney Trip

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—General Paul Walker, the Middletown High School basketball coach with the fabulous record, has the itch to travel.

Not to far off places—just a nice, short 95-mile journey to the state scholastic tournament here March 25-26.

Middletown, as most people know, has made these trips before and come home with seven state championships, an unmatched feat.

And Walker - coached clubs copped the crown in 1947, '52, '53, '56 and '57.

The veteran mentor has his Middies moving again after a two-year absence from regional competition. Walker's crew turned in impressive district victories last weekend, knocking off highly touted Finneytown on Friday and Hamilton Garfield on Saturday to advance to the Cincinnati regional.

"Everyone in Middletown has the bug," Walker said with enthusiasm. "Only two more big ones to go... we sure would like to make that trip up Interstate 71."

But the crafty coach knows there's a tough road ahead. He described as "real tough" the field in the Queen City tournament that includes third-ranked Dayton Chaminade, Cincinnati Elder and Springfield South, Middletown's opponent Friday night.

"Chaminade has a very sound club. It has to be the team to beat down here and maybe for the state title."

Walker has seen some of the other top teams in the state and singled out Toledo Libbey as a school to watch.

"Libbey has a fine team and I'd rate them stronger than Lima Shawnee, which is rugged enough," he said.

The Middies have a 19-4 record and have reeled off eight straight victories.

Walker already reached one milestone this season when he became only the third coach in Ohio history to post more than 500 victories. His teams have registered 514 to place him second in the all-time derby behind Canton Lehman's great Jim Robinson, now retired, who collected 598 triumphs.

"Another state title would certainly climax a fine season," Walker said.

Sluggers on the Milwaukee Braves in 1965 produced a National League home run record. Six of them went over the 20 mark, a NL club high. They were Ed Mathews 32, Hank Aaron 32, Mack Jones 31, Joe Torre 27, Felipe Alou 23 and Gene Oliver 21.

Willie Mays Still Shows Top Form

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Willie Mays, the National League's Most Valuable Player of 1965, shows no signs of slowing down this spring.

In his first three exhibition games, playing only the first half of each, he has hit two home runs and thrown two opposing base runners out at home plate.

Despite the rigors of the winter banquet circuit, he reported to camp just four pounds over his usual playing weight of 186 and says he feels just great.

Personally, he doesn't want much mention of his spring exploits, declaring:

"Every spring it's the same old stuff. You mention how old I am. Let's just let it be fun. Just let me play."

Mays, 34, who hit a career high of 52 homers last year to lead the major leagues, opened his spring campaign with a run-scoring double on the first pitch from Cleveland's Gary Bell and drove in two more tallies before retiring after the fifth inning.

He homered over the right-field fence in Phoenix Municipal Stadium on Sunday at the expense of Cleveland's Lee Stange and over the left-field fence on Monday off Chicago's Larry Jackson. Both clouts carried more than 400 feet.

RAIL-BIRD—Rail-birds of a feather flock together, to be sure, and this pigeon, called "Nun," goes with Tony Gallego of the E. B. Carpenter stable around the Hialeah track for daily workouts.

Former Coach At Yellow Springs

Paul Reiss, former Circleville High School basketball coach, is mentor of Yellow Springs High School, one of the 16 Class A cage teams still in tournament competition.

Scheduled to play in the Troy regional along with Newark Catholic, Batavia and Dixie, Yellow Springs has a record of 14 wins and eight losses.

Reiss coached the Tiger cagers during the 1962-63 school year. They had a record of 6-13 that season, including ten losses in South Central Ohio League action.

He was also coached two years at Walnut Twp. High School immediately preceding the Teays Valley School District consolidation.

Soapbox Derby Grandstand OK

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Service Director David W. Zimmer has disclosed plans for a $1.1 million program by Chevrolet to build concrete grandstands and related facilities at Derby Downs, the site of the annual All-American Soap Box Derby sponsored by Chevrolet.

Zimmer said Monday that top Chevrolet and General Motors Corp. officials must be sold on the idea, which is a brainchild of Chevrolet's public relations staff but he added "it's all speedy approval of the four-year program from officials in Detroit could mean a start on the project this spring."

Sophomore Pitcher Seeks Tribe Berth

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Add a new name to the list of Cleveland Indians hopefuls—pitcher Alan Closter.

"That's the first time I saw him, but he looked pretty good to me," said manager Birdie Tebbetts after the Tribe beat the California Angels, 5-2, in an exhibition game Monday.

Closter, a 22-year-old sophomore listed as a first-year man, pitched two innings and didn't allow a hit. He walked one and struck out three.

Mace Trains 14 Head at Van Camp's

By STEVE JONES
Each year the harness racing season begins a little earlier and this year is no exception.

Jim Mace, who is training a stable of 14 head at George Van Camp's track just north of Circleville on County Road 511, already has two horses on the "i.cult at Chicago, Ill.

Speed Limit, a pacer owned by Frances Cloud of Ashville and Jim's wife Joan, placed second at Sportsmen's Park with the nation's leading harness horse driver, Bob Farrington in the sulky.

Battle Star, a trotter with a mark of 2:06.3, is slated for its first start this week. A son of Battle Prince, the trotter is owned by Waldo King of Scio.

KING also owns Ohio Law, a 4-year-old pacer by Ohio Worth.

In addition to Speed Limit, Mace is training two other pacers owned by Frances Cloud and his wife. They are Sidney M, a pacer with a mark of 2:02.1 and sired by Jerry the First, and Meadow Elsa, by

Ross Horsemen Schedule Their Annual Banquet

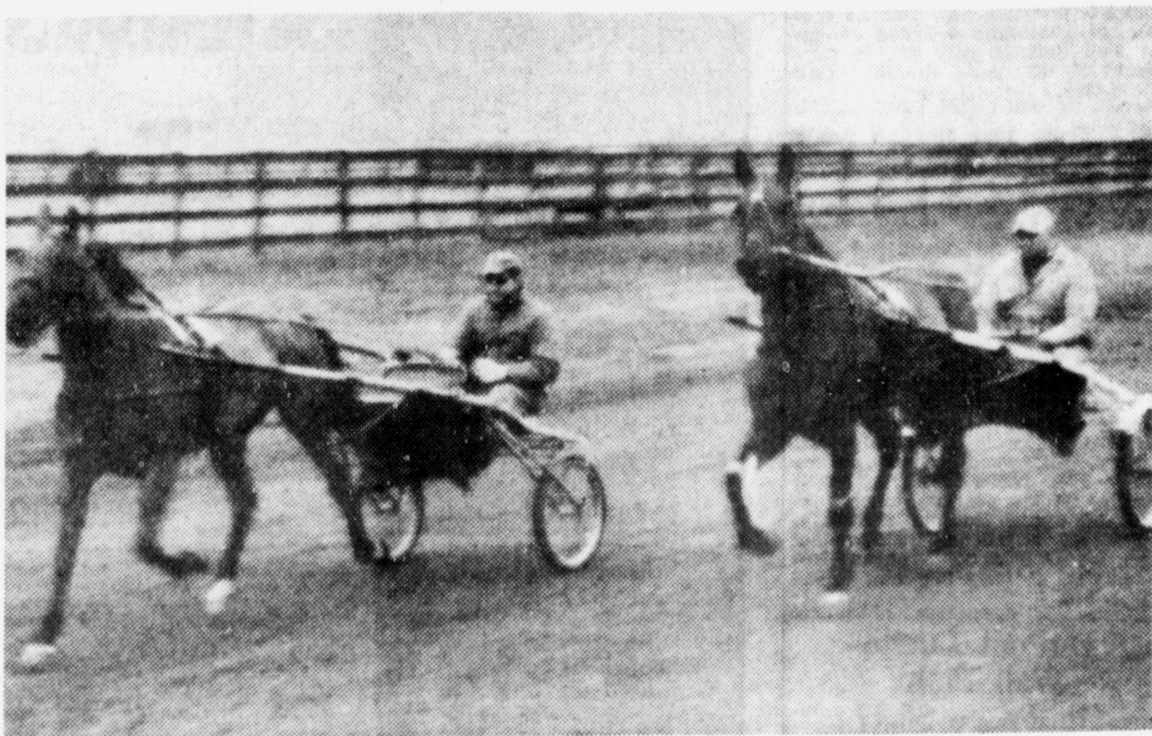

The annual Ross County Horseman's banquet is scheduled March 26 at Holiday Inn, Chillicothe, it has been announced by Emmett Ebenhack president.

A social hour has been scheduled from 6:30 to 7:30 p. m. Dinner will be served at 7:30 p. m. and an interesting program is on tap following the meal, Ebenhack said.

The program will include films of the Little Brown Jug, the Hambletonian, and the "Bilby Houghton Story".

Among the guest speakers are Wayne (Curly) Smart of Delaware, and Dr. J. P. Gardner, Kingston veterinarian who is well known for his original poetry on horses.

Gerald Mahle, St. John's (New York) University half mile runner, is the only out-of-state man on the Redmen's track team. He's from Fort Lee, N. J.

Adios Harry. The latter has paced the mile in 2:04.2.

Mrs. Mace also holds joint ownership in a colt by Berrymite with Marilyn Arledge of Circleville. The promising 2-year-old filly is Berry Gal.

Franklin Rhoads has four horses currently being trained by Mace. They include two colts, Harry the First and April Scamp. The former is a pacer by Harry's Dream, while the latter was sired by Berrymite.

Star, a 4-year-old by Hodgen and Fair Indian, a three-year-old by Royal Valley are the other two.

For George Duma of Clinton, he has Easy Joe, a pacer that has gone the mile in 2:07.1.

WALDO KING and Hobart Stroud of Scio, have Famous Jenko in Mace's Stable.

Rounding out the string of horses are Stormy Steamin', a pacer owned by Arthur Mace, and sired by the famous Steam-in' Demon and Pilot M, a 3-year-old pacer by Air Pilot. The latter is owned by Frank Mace.

As soon as Northfield Park in Cleveland opens in mid-April, Mace expects to move out of his training quarters at Van Camp's stable.

The annual Pickaway County Spring Harness Matinee is scheduled April 24, the following week.

Triple Bogey Keeps Cassady From Qualifying at Orlando

Tom Cassady shot a triple bogey on his first hole in attempting to qualify for Monday's Open at Orlando, Fla., and missed the cut by just three strokes.

Starting on the 10th tee, the former Pickaway Country Club pro carded a seven on the par four hole.

For the other 17 holes he played an even par. Although his putting is beginning to improve, Cassady said he is "still not satisfied with my game."

The next stop for Cassady is the Jacksonville Open next week.

Unless he plays all four rounds of the tournament immediately preceding his next stop on the tour, Cassady must first shoot a qualifying round, usually on the Monday of the week of the tournament.

He started on the pro tour at Phoenix, Ariz., this year, qualifying for the Phoenix Open. However, he failed to make the cut after the first two rounds of play.

O'Toole Seen Carrying Top Redleg Load

FT. MEYERS, Fla. (AP)—Whether or not the Cincinnati Reds will have Jim Maloney with them this season, it looks as though Jim O'Toole will do his share.

O'Toole, who had a dismal 3-10 record in 1965 after several years as one of the Reds' more dependable pitchers, had another fine day Monday.

The left-hander fanned four of the ten Houston Astros he faced and gave up only one harmless single as he helped the Reds win a 4-2 exhibition baseball victory.

Gordy Coleman led off with a home run in the second inning and the Reds scored two more runs on four singles. The Astros scored twice in the third—once on Johnny Bateman's 400-foot plus homer—and Cincinnati made it 4-2 in its half of the winning of Veda Pinson led off with a home run.

Sammy Ellis picked up the victory after working the first three innings.

Maloney, who had a 20-9 record last year, is holding out for more money and has been quoted as saying he is willing to sit out the whole season unless the Reds pay him what he thinks he's worth.

The Reds are scheduled to meet the Pittsburgh Pirates here today.

In 4-H club work, a comprehensive system of awards is provided by scores of donors convinced that 4-H is an investment in future security.

Top Pitchers Still Listed Holdouts

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Fresno, Calif., isn't Jim Maloney's idea of a summer festival. Elba was no picnic for Napoleon either.
But Nappy was holding out for a lot more than $50,000. And how many no-hitters did he pitch?
Maloney, who tossed a pair of no-hit gems and won 20 games for the Cincinnati Reds last season, is in exile at his Fresno home. The Reds, apparently, are in no hurry to set him free after his rejection of their "final offer" of $42,500.

The big right-hander is holding out for $50,000 on the strength of his 20-9 record, 244 strikeouts and 2.54 earned run average last year.
Cincinnati's last word: "Have a nice summer in Fresno."
Maloney's answer: "Trade me or sell me."
"I'm sure some club can use my services, if not in the National League, then in the American," the 25-year-old fireballer said Monday. "I've got enough work here. I'm not hurting. I've saved my money and made a few investments."

Chances are that Maloney — and baseball's other illustrious exiles, pitchers Sandy Koufax and Don Drysdale of the world champion Los Angeles Dodgers — will find their way back to the diamond before next month's season openers.

In the meantime, Cincinnati Manager Don Heckner and Dodgers pilot Walter Alton are making alternate plans — and keeping their fingers crossed.

"It's hard to tell what the effect would be if we had to play without them (Koufax and Drysdale)," Alton said at the Dodgers' Vero Beach, Fla., training base.

"We have some young pitchers we're pretty proud of. I like to think they would react like Jim Lefebvre (National League rookie of the year) when he came up last year — and be better than we thought."

"Given a chance to pitch they might be able to do it. But it all depends."

While Drysdale and Koufax continued their campaign for a reported $1-million package over three years, the Dodgers hoped to pick off shortstop Maury Wills today. Wills, who turned down a $75,000 contract over the weekend, was to meet with club vice president Buzzie Bavasi at Vero Beach.

Minnesota pitcher Jim Grant was the only other unsatisfied player as the clubs swung into the second week of exhibition play.

NYU's Coach Uses Poem To Spur Players

NEW YORK (AP) — "The moving finger writes and having writ moves on."
So says an 11th Century poet. But in the case of the 1966 locker-room poet, the finger writes — and hangs around.

Before Monday night's National Invitation Tournament basketball game between New York University and Wichita, the finger chalked on the locker-room blackboard:

"Game No. 1 is now under your belt. So let's hit Wichita with the second welt. Then in the 3rd game put on the clamp. And you end up the champ."

NYU followed the poetic advice and trimmed second-seeded Wichita in overtime 90-84, advancing to the semifinals for the third straight year.

In the opener of the double-header, top-seeded Brigham Young defeated Temple 90-78 and will play the winner of tonight's Army-San Francisco game in Thursday's semifinal. NYU will play the winner of the Villanova - Boston College contest.

"I'll start thinking of Thursday's poem now so it will rhyme," said the locker-room poet, NYU trainer Edwin Farrell.

"I've been writing them about the last six games."

A month ago the Bilelets had a mediocre 10-8 record and were distant from any tournament. Then they won five of their last six games and earned an NIT bid.

Once in the tournament, they beat De Paul 68-65. Then Monday night, they played possibly their best game of the season in upsetting Wichita.

Eight NYU free throws to one field goal for the Wheatshockers ended it in overtime. Bruce Kaplan made four of the free throws while Mal Graham and Richie Dyer added two each. It was Graham's field goal with 31 seconds left that tied the game in regulation time 82-82. The deadlock was the 14th of the second half, which also saw the lead change hands 18 times.

NEW YORK (AP) — ABC's long-ailing "Ben Casey" will be retired to syndication after next Monday night's show and the following week the dedicated neurosurgeon will be replaced on the home screens by still another secret agent.

The new series, called "The Avengers," has been a British television smash since 1961, pre-dating the James Bond - Man From U.N.C.L.E. fad in America. That means that its success or failure with American audiences, currently up to here in spy thrillers, may be simply a matter of timing.

The network, which acquired 26 shows which have already been seen by British audiences, has imported the two stars, Patrick Macnee and Diana Rigg, for a short but intensive publicity whirl to stir up interest in the offering.

Miss Rigg, who plays the modern heroine-helms of Macnee jumped directly into the series from the Royal Shakespeare Company at Stratford-in-Avon and leaped into leather slacks and judo kicks from the flowing robes and histrionics of Cordelia of "King Lear."

Macnee plays a conservative, romantic mature fellow who prefers life as it was lived in the 18th century.

Macnee, who is David Niven's second cousin, hopes that American audiences will find the show as amusing as the British do.

"It is rather in 'Thin Man' vein," he explained, "except of course that we are not married. We think there's an amusing contrast between me, the old-fashioned man, and Diana, who is so terribly modern and gets into perfectly dreadful perils-of-Pauline situations. Then when she fights it out — and always defeats the men, we think there's sympathy on her side because she's suffered so."

Recommended tonight: CS Reports, 1011 (EST) — "I.O.U. $315,000,000,000," a study of the credit structure of the nation.

The new series, called "The Avengers," has been a British television smash since 1961, pre-dating the James Bond - Man From U.N.C.L.E. fad in America. That means that its success or failure with American audiences, currently up to here in spy thrillers, may be simply a matter of timing.

The network, which acquired 26 shows which have already been seen by British audiences, has imported the two stars, Patrick Macnee and Diana Rigg, for a short but intensive publicity whirl to stir up interest in the offering.

Miss Rigg, who plays the modern heroine-helmsman of Macnee jumped directly into the series from the Royal Shakespeare Company at Stratford-in-Avon and leaped into leather slacks and judo kicks from the flowing robes and histrionics of Cordelia of "King Lear."

Macnee plays a conservative, romantic mature fellow who prefers life as it was lived in the 18th century.

Macnee, who is David Niven's second cousin, hopes that American audiences will find the show as amusing as the British do.

"It is rather in 'Thin Man' vein," he explained, "except of course that we are not married. We think there's an amusing contrast between me, the old-fashioned man, and Diana, who is so terribly modern and gets into perfectly dreadful perils-of-Pauline situations. Then when she fights it out — and always defeats the men, we think there's sympathy on her side because she's suffered so."

Hall-Adkins Set For Anniversary

A giant-sized birthday celebration is being planned by American Legionnaires of Hall-Adkins Post 134 in conjunction with the Legion's 47th anniversary this week.

Participation of local Legionnaires in this year's anniversary celebration will add to the festivities of some 16,000 Legion community organizations throughout the nation and in several overseas countries and territories. Legion members consider it the world's largest birthday party, according to local post commander Ernie Stonerock.

The American Legion was founded in 1919 in Paris, France, shortly after the close of World War I. It was organized by representatives of various units which made up the American Expeditionary Force.

The organization now consists of veterans of World War I, World War II, the Korean War and action is being taken by the National organization to include present cold war veterans.

COMMANDER Stonerock said a committee headed by Roger L. Smith has been appointed to make arrangements for the anniversary celebration here. Other members of the panel are Dudley G. Radcliff and Harold W. Hill.

Highlighting the observance will be a birthday dinner dance Saturday night at the Post Home. Commander Stonerock said. The heads of most local service clubs have been invited.

James Shea, Veterans Service officer, will serve as master of ceremonies. John (Pat) Hone, service director of the American Legion of Ohio will be guest speaker.

2 Juveniles Fire Rifle At House

Two youths, 8 and 12, were apprehended yesterday after they allegedly stole a .22 caliber rifle and shot at a house owned by Siebert Duvall, Route 1, Ashville.

The youths were picked up by Ashville Marshal Glen Clay who was cooperating with the Pickaway County Sheriff's Department in a search for them. Sheriff Dwight Radcliff said a timely call from a family living near the house where the incident occurred made the quick apprehension possible.

The sheriff noted the youths admitted taking the rifle from a truck and shooting into the house in addition to opening several mail boxes in the vicinity.

The youths have been referred to juvenile authorities.

Former Editor Here Claimed by Heart Attack

Robert McCarty, a former editor of The Circleville Herald, died Monday of a heart attack at his home in Coshocton.

McCarty, managing editor of the Coshocton Tribune, collapsed soon after going home from his office. He served as sports editor and news editor here in the mid-1940's.

The newsman was a native of Chillicothe. Funeral arrangements are pending; notification of a son with the U. S. forces in Viet Nam.

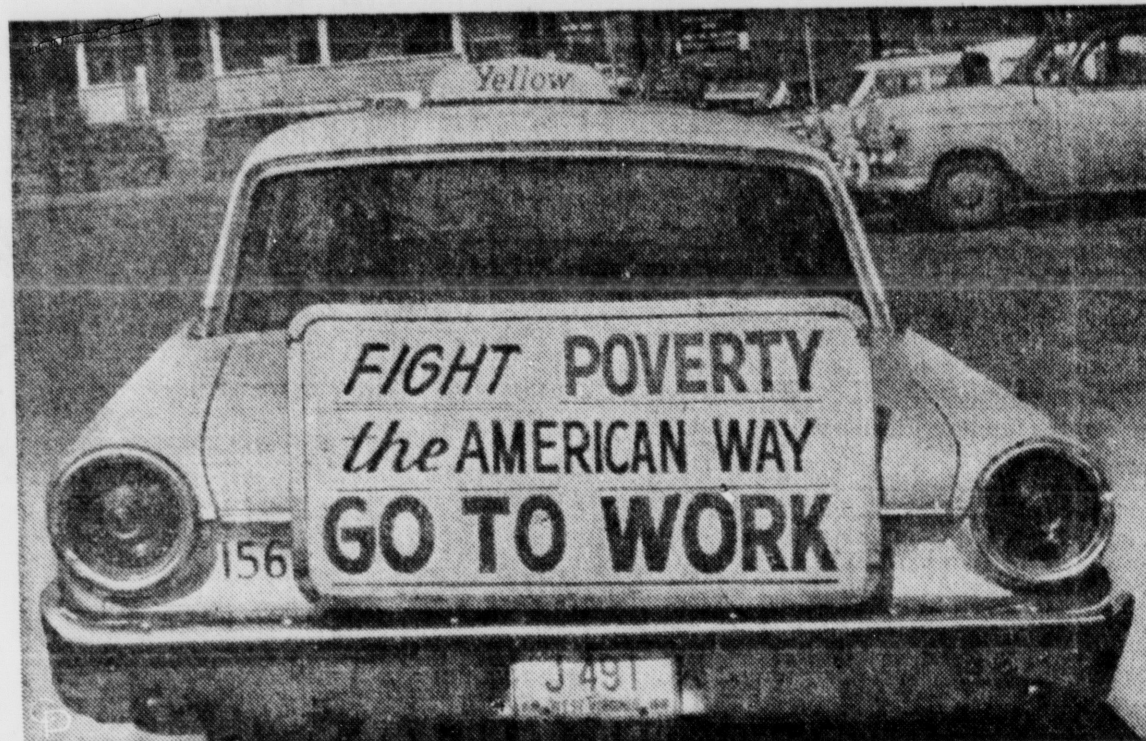

McCarty, who first joined the Tribune in 1951 as sport editor, also worked on newspapers in Chillicothe, Zanesville, Tennessee and South Carolina. He left Coshocton about 1955, returning two years ago as managing editor.

Besides his son, he leaves his widow and four daughters.

Million Anti-Communist Indonesians Stage Rally

SINGAPORE (AP)—Jakarta radio said today more than a million persons massed in the Indonesian capital in a demonstration of support for Lt. Gen. Suharto's anti-Communist campaign.

Speakers demanded that Suharto "cleanse the Cabinet" of Communist elements and put all Communists on trial.

The rally was organized by the political parties that make up the anti-Communist Pancasila Front.

The U.S. ambassador to Indonesia, Marshall Green, said in a telephone conversation with Tokyo the demonstration was one of the largest he had ever seen.

The Indonesian government radio said leaders of the rally pledged full support to Suharto and urged all at the demonstration to pray to God that his actions would benefit Indonesia.

Speakers called on the army chief to take immediate action to stabilize the country's economy and to reopen the University of Jakarta.

President Sukarno closed the university in a futile effort to the University of North Carolina, resigning last December to take the Drake post.

end student demonstrations protesting his firing of the anti-Communist Defense Minister Gen. Abdul Haris Nasution, last month.

The demonstrations, which became increasingly violent, led Suharto to take control of the country from Sukarno, who remains as a figurehead president. One of Suharto's first official acts after the take over on Saturday was to ban the Indonesian Communist party.

In an earlier broadcast, Radio Jakarta said Suharto was "indisposed" and did not attend a meeting of Sukarno; the new defense minister, Maj. Gen. Sar-bini; and his deputy, Maj. Gen. Murshid, at Sukarno's palace at Bogor, 40 miles from Jakarta.

Informed sources in Singapore said they had learned that Suharto is suffering from a slight case of influenza and that it appeared he did not want to discuss with the president Suharto's reported intention to drop pro-Communist ministers from the Cabinet.

Those to be ousted reportedly include Sukarno's pro-Peking First Deputy Premier Subandrio and Third Deputy Premier Chaerul Saleh. Subandrio, Saleh and 16 other ministers are under house arrest in Sukarno's palace in Jakarta, the sources said.

Fair Manager Resigns Post Second Time

William L. Cook, 131 Park Place, has resigned as manager of the Pickaway County Fair.

Cook submitted his resignation to the County Agricultural Society Monday night. He quit the joint post of secretary-fair manager in August of last year, but was rehired in December to assume the duties of fair manager only.

The manager said he will remain on the job until a replacement is found. His former position of secretary was filled by Charles Gerhardt in December.

Serving as secretary-manager here since 1957, Cook accepted the managers post only at a salary of $4,500 per year. He had earned $5,000 annually for the combined job.

IN ANNOUNCING his resignation for the second time, he indicated he was not satisfied with the new salary rate and the lack of provisions for periodic increases.

Cook said he currently is considering another employment offer that would provide him more time of his own. He said he also volunteered to help out at the Fairgrounds when possible.

The resignation was submitted during last night's regular meeting of the county agricultural unit. President Charles Rose and members of the board indicated a replacement will be sought.

Red Cross Volunteer Luncheon Scheduled

Final arrangements are being made for a Red Cross Volunteer Luncheon to be held 11:30 a. m. Mar. 24 in the First Methodist Church Basement.

Following the luncheon there will be an award service for some 20 volunteers who have completed their training. They will receive membership pins. Awards also will be given for service in 1965.

Reservations must be made this week with Mrs. Eli Hedges, GR 4-4777, or Miss Mary Howard, GR 4-6108.

Donald Hill will be in charge of the program. The luncheon session will be conducted in the St. Philip's Church Parish House.

CAB Probe Slated in Cincy Crash

CINCINNATI (AP)—More than a score of witnesses—including a veteran pilot who was aboard the doomed plane—are scheduled to testify in the Civil Aeronautics Board's hearing on the airliner crash that took 58 lives near Cincinnati.

The pilot, Capt. Elmer C. Weekly, 46, Saratoga, Calif., was a passenger on American Airlines flight 383 that smashed into a bluff overlooking the Ohio River near Constance, Ky. during a rain squall the evening of Nov. 8, 1965.

The hearing may last for several days. Besides hearing testimony, the board will enter into evidence 74 exhibits ranging from the flight plan from LaGuardia Airport at New York to the reports from teams of investigators that sifted through the charred wreckage.

One of the reports will concern the flight recorder, a device that records data about every moment of a flight. The recorder was damaged in the crash.

Four of the persons aboard the Boeing 727 were thrown clear and survived, including Weekly and stewardess Toni Ketchell, 26, West Monroe, La., and two other passengers.

Gallipolis, Cincy Get Renewal Grants

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two Ohio grants were announced Monday by the Urban Renewal Administration, $7,914 for Gallipolis and $6,114 for Cincinnati.

If the first part of your vehicle identification number is here, you might be a winner.

Here's how it works. Look at the first symbols (the prefix) on your vehicle identification slip. Then look at the symbols listed above. If you find yours on the list, you've taken the first step toward being a winner. Now go see your Buick dealer. He has a list of 72 winners posted in his showroom. If you see your entire vehicle identification number on the poster—the symbols plus the rest of the numbers—$2332 cash is yours. (If your prefix isn't listed in this ad, don't give up. Your numbers may have been posted during the past few weeks. And every week there are 72 new winners posted on the showroom wall. So watch for next week's list of new symbols in this newspaper.) No slogan to invent, no puzzles to solve. In fact, you don't even have to own a Buick to have a winning number. While you're in the showroom, get a good look at the Buick Special. The $2332.00* happens to be its price. *Manufacturer's suggested retail price for Special V-6, 2-dr. coupe. Price includes Federal Excise Tax and suggested dealer delivery and handling charge.

Contest Rules. Residents of Kansas, Missouri and Nebraska may, if they prefer, send in a postcard to R. L. Polk and Co., P.O. Box 1347, Detroit, Michigan 48231 and receive the weekly list of winning numbers by mail for comparison with their own vehicle identification number. An official entry form will be included. Fair Manager Resigns Post Second Time

William L. Cook, 131 Park Place, has resigned as manager of the Pickaway County Fair.

Cook submitted his resignation to the County Agricultural Society Monday night. He quit the joint post of secretary-fair manager in August of last year, but was rehired in December to assume the duties of fair manager only.

The manager said he will remain on the job until a replacement is found. His former position of secretary was filled by Charles Gerhardt in December.

Serving as secretary-manager here since 1957, Cook accepted the managers post only at a salary of $4,500 per year. He had earned $5,000 annually for the combined job.

IN ANNOUNCING his resignation for the second time, he indicated he was not satisfied with the new salary rate and the lack of provisions for periodic increases.

Cook said he currently is considering another employment offer that would provide him more time of his own. He said he also volunteered to help out at the Fairgrounds when possible.

The resignation was submitted during last night's regular meeting of the county agricultural unit. President Charles Rose and members of the board indicated a replacement will be sought.

Red Cross Volunteer Luncheon Scheduled

Final arrangements are being made for a Red Cross Volunteer Luncheon to be held 11:30 a. m. Mar. 24 in the First Methodist Church Basement.

Following the luncheon there will be an award service for some 20 volunteers who have completed 100-hour training. They will receive membership pins. Awards also will be given for service in 1965.

Reservations must be made this week with Mrs. Eli Hedges, GR 4-4777, or Miss Mary Howard, GR 4-6108.

CAB Probe Slated in Cincy Crash

CINCINNATI (AP)—More than a score of witnesses—including a veteran pilot who was aboard the doomed plane—are scheduled to testify in the Civil Aeronautics Board's hearing on the airliner crash that took 58 lives near Cincinnati.

The pilot, Capt. Elmer C. Weekly, 46, Saratoga, Calif., was a passenger on American Airlines flight 383 that smashed into a bluff overhanging the Ohio River near Constance, Ky., during a rain squall the evening of Nov. 8, 1965.

The hearing may last for several days. Besides hearing testimony, the board will enter into evidence 74 exhibits ranging from the flight plan from LaGuardia Airport at New York to the reports from teams of investigators that sifted through the charred wreckage.

One of the reports will concern the flight recorder, a device that records data about every moment of a flight. The recorder was damaged in the crash.

Four of the persons aboard the Boeing 727 were thrown clear and survived, including Weekley and stewardess Toni Ketchell, 26, West Monroe, La., and two other passengers.

Gallipolis, Cincy Get Renewal Grants

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two Ohio grants were announced Monday by the Urban Renewal Administration, $7,914 for Gallipolis and $6,114 for Cincinnati.

The Ohio Development Department will use the larger sum to help Gallipolis prepare a growth-development plan, while Cincinnati's award will help finance demolition of eight abandoned buildings.

If the first part of your vehicle identification number is here, you might be a winner.

Here's how it works. Look at the first symbols (the prefix) on your vehicle identification slip. Then look at the symbols listed above. If you find yours on the list, you've taken the first step toward being a winner. Now go see your Buick dealer. He has a list of 72 winners posted in his showroom. If you see your entire vehicle identification number on the poster—the symbols plus the rest of the numbers—$2332 cash is yours. (If your prefix isn't listed in this ad, don't give up. Your numbers may have been posted during the past few weeks. And every week there are 72 new winners posted on the showroom wall. So watch for next week's list of new symbols in this newspaper.) No slogan to invent, no puzzles to solve. In fact, you don't even have to own a Buick to have a winning number. While you're in the showroom, get a good look at the Buick Special. The $2332.00* happens to be its price. *Manufacturer's suggested retail price for Special V-6, 2-dr. coupe. Price includes Federal Excise Tax and suggested dealer delivery and handling charge.

Contest Rules. Residents of Kansas, Missouri and Nebraska may, if they prefer, send in a postcard to R. L. Polk and Co., P.O. Box 1347, Detroit, Michigan 48231 and receive the weekly list of winning numbers by mail for comparison with their own vehicle identification number. An official entry form will be included. Sweepstakes limited to persons over 21 living in the continental U.S. Not valid in Florida or states where prohibited by law.
